County due three new election boxes

Georgetown, Round Rock and the Pond Springs area are all slated for new election boxes as county fathers meet Monday to consider election precinct changes as well as to take a second look at budget requests for 1977.

Commissioners discussed the changes — involving Georgetown Precincts 1 and 29, Round Rock Election Precinct 23, Pond Springs Precinct 5 and Taylor 27 — in May, but can take formal action on the matter only in July or August.

Circleville will receive some of the excess Taylor voters when new precincts are created in the other areas, according to county Clerk Dick Cervenka.

Texas election laws prohibit precincts having more than 2,000 registered voters, as ascertained during the last general presidential election year.

INTERIM FUNDING arrangements for the juvenile probation officer also appear on the agenda. At commissioners' last meeting, Wesley Foust proposed that intern Glen Kratochvil of Taylor be hired when his internship ends August 10, even though the pending grant for employment of a fulltime juvenile probation officer has not been awarded.

Tear gas and $400-a-month pay hikes? Nel Persky details county budget requests, pages 4 & 5.

But Taylor Commissioner W. F. Schliekeisen pointed out that word of acceptance on the grant is expected in September, only two weeks from the date of Kratochvil's graduation from Sam Houston State University, and the matter was dropped.

Repeal of the statute permitting commissioners to terrace private lands for conservation purposes is another item to be discussed in the county court Monday morning. The item had been mentioned during commissioners' July 26 meeting in connection with a letter received from the state governor's office, requesting a list of items concerning county government which might be considered during the upcoming session of the Texas legislature.

At that time Foust opposed the proposed repeal; no official stance was taken by any of the other commissioners.

AS REQUIRED by Texas statutes, County Judge C. L. Chance will seek of- ficial court permission to leave the state during his upcoming vacation.

Annual request of state lateral road funds will be considered, along with the request by SUN reporter Nel Persky for permission to explore the courthouse dome clock tower.

Appointments to the Manpower Advisory Planning Council will be considered. Foust represents Williamson County in this capacity during 1976. At-large appointments to be considered include re-appointment of Georgetown Rev. M. H. VanHoos as well as of Steve Quilla, director of the community action agency in Smithville. Ofelia T. Vasquez, director of the San Marcos CAA, and Phillip Waters, director of Capital Area Human Services, Inc. in San Marcos.

Appointments are for one year and must be approved in court action by each of the eight rural counties which belong to the Manpower consortium.

Mike and Susan Strange, of Hannibal, Missouri, have looked forward to the day when they could purchase a new automobile.

"But we aren't going to trade our old Toyota in on it," they assure you. "We are going to park it out in the back, take two sledgehammers and beat it to pieces!" They've had transmission trouble from the word go.

THUS WARNED, what did I do recently? I went down to Compton's Motors and bought the SUN a used Toyota. And what did I get in less than two weeks? Transmission trouble, that's what.

Susan is the daughter of Joe and Jane McCook, of course, and Mike is Dr. Mike Strange, specializing in ear, nose and throat surgery.

The marijuana patch in west Williamson County, discovered and destroyed by sheriff's officers this week, is going to cost taxpayers a pretty penny before all's said and done.

SHERIFF BOSSHARD estimated that a total of 420 hours of police work, including many hours of surveillance, had gone into the case at the time the arrests were made. Add the trial costs and, if a conviction is obtained and a jail sentence meted out, we taxpayers will be forking over far more than the $15,000 street value the weed is supposed to have. The cost of crime is high. Could there be some method of prevention devised?

Week's news in a nutshell

Ronald Reagan's selection of Senator Richard Schweiker still has the press titillated. Time Magazine said flatly it was a gigantic mistake on Reagan's part and handed the GOP nomination over to Ford. Later during the week, however, Gov.

Reagan was counting some extra delegate noses and talking a good game. So, it's still up in the air — the nomination — which is apt to end in defeat, anyway, for the Republican candidate. All the political hotshots are putting their bets on Jimmy Carter.

THE DEADLY ILLNESS that has, to date, killed 22 or 23 people who attended the state American Legion convention in Pennsylvania is still a mystery as the week ends, although there are some clues. Swine flu, the kind that swept the world in 1918, killing 500,000

Americans, has not been ruled out and Congress is trying to pass legislation that would help the President get his vaccine on the market in time for a possible fall epidemic.

City contract award set Tues.

Georgetown's City Council is scheduled to award a contract for construction of three local drainage projects, consider advertising for bids to build the new city bike and bike trail, and open bids to supply the city gas and oil in its regular meeting in City Hall at 7 p.m. Tuesdays.

During a special Council session July 28 R. D. Parker construction company of Georgetown submitted the low bid of $119,396 for construction of drainage projects on Ash Street, West Fourteenth Street, and in the San Jose Street area.

Construction will be paid for with funds from the city's 1976 Community Development grant.

Although the Georgetown company submitted its bid just past the bid deadline at that meeting, none of the three competing firms registered protests, so the contract is expected to go to Parker.

The new bike and bike trail, which will connect Georgetown's VFW and San Gabriel parks, will be paid for with city funds matched by a $23,100 federal grant approved in July.

ALSO TUESDAY, Councilmen will consider authorizing the city administration to purchase 7.89 acres of land in southeast Georgetown, soon to be abandoned by the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad. Preliminary estimates placed the cost of the property at about $6,000.

The Council will also study appointment of an Airport Advisory Board, hear second reading of an ordinance annexing Northwood Oaks, consider a resolution authorizing lease of city land for a Georgetown Jaycee Club building site, and hear second reading of an ordinance amending hours for local amusements parlors.

Question: Will Jimmy Carter, peanut farmer from Georgia, carry the Deep South?

UNQUESTIONABLY.

Question: Would the same James Carter, if he were a wheat farmer from Nebraska, carry the Deep South?

Right now Dixie is caught up in almost unanimous regional enthusiasm for "a Southern President."

In Georgia many or most will concede that Jimmy could not again have been elected to state office, yet his home state will close ranks behind his bid for the Presidency.

In Alabama and Mississippi where Jimmy Carter had been considered much "too liberal," he is now considered "a Southern Democrat," "one of us."

IN RECENT ELECTIONS Southerners have departed from the party of their parents, figuring conservative fiscal policy more important than political tradition. But they've been uncomfortable as Republicans, yearning to be able to vote as Democrats again.

NOW THEY CAN — and they will — even though to contribute to a party mandate nationally may return to Congress a host of "wild-eyed spenders" of whom the South disapproves.

So it makes for fascinating conjecture to imagine their party's candidate to be "James Carter, Nebraska Democrat, wheat farmer."

Imagine that he has this same running mate.

Assume him to have identical Carter convictions on crucial issues.

He supports the Humphrey-Hawkins bill.

He would maintain the Voting Rights Act and other civil rights legislation.

HE WOULD NOT SEEK a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortion.

He favors increased federal aid to education.

He would not seek to end busing with a constitutional amendment.

He favors national health care insurance.

He promises to reduce the number of federal government bureaus from 1,900 to 200.

He would withdraw American ground forces from South Korea and reconsider our troop commitment to NATO.

In labor disputes involving teachers, firemen and policemen, he favors binding arbitration — with the right-to-strike only if the employer rejects the arbitration.

HE SUGGESTS FULL PARDON for draft evaders, case-by-case consideration for deserters.

He is a fundamentalist Baptist.

Back to the question — if this were James Carter, Democrat, Nebraska wheat farmer, would Dixie vote for him?

With his "moderate" program, probably yes.

He'd still be a fresh face — he'd still be unidentified with the discredited political establishment, he'd still be talking unashamedly, and apparently totally sincerely, about old-fashioned virtues — and he'd still be a Democrat.

I don't know. This time I'd be interested to know what you think.

Or, more significantly, what "y'all" think.

One out of three

We all talk about bureaucratic waste in Washington and Austin, but little is said of it in the old hometown.

VIRTUALLY ALL TOWNS in Texas have separate collection offices for school and city taxes. The county, of course, furnishes a third office, all sending bills to the same people.

At one time or another, school, city and county leaders tackle the problem. In some cases they have consolidated, not always with the desired effects. Our neighboring city of Round Rock has proposed a consolidation of tax collections with its school board, which the Round Rock Leader hails as "a good example of how cooperation can save money."

Certainly a good case can be made for this kind of cooperation. It will be interesting to watch the Round Rock experiment, if it is indeed undertaken, and perhaps consider again how it could be tried here. And, why not a three-way deal to include the county?

JUST BECAUSE we have been doing something the same way for umpteen generations is no reason to conclude that it can't be improved upon. Nor, for that matter, is it cause for change, which can often result in making things worse. All of us have cursed the modernized and automated billing system of the big institutions, and even the post office! Many of us would like to see the simple ways of the past returned.

A certainty

LOTS OF interesting things pop up in church bulletins but for pure punch in a few words this is the best we've seen in quite a while.

There wasn't any sermon. There weren't any Bible quotations. There weren't any admonishments.

A Presbyterian minister simply listed "Six Cast Iron Certainties for 1976" on the front of his weekly bulletin.

He listed five certain situations, none open to argument, like:

1. Newspapers are going to depress you.
2. Television is going to irritate you.
3. Legislation is going to infuriate you.
4. Inflation and taxes are going to cost you.
5. Coping with life is going to worry you.

Then he poked his congregation with the only sure "good thing" that could happen to them.

No. 6 said "Christianity and the Church are going to strengthen you."

New uses for old rail depots

By Robert P. Hey

Washington
Marysville, Pennsylvania, and Chatham, Massachusetts, have in common?

Train stations now used for other purposes, since they are no longer needed for railroad passengers.

In Washington, cavernous Union Station — newly scoured and carpeted — now houses the city's visitor center, which opened this past July Fourth.

In industrial Marysville a non-railroad sign hangs from the utilitarian depot: "Antiques and Used Furniture," it says.

In Chatham the quaint Victorian station now is home for a museum of railroad memorabilia; trains stopped coming to Chatham and the rest of Cape Cod years ago.

Across the United States hundreds of other onetime railroad stations similarly have been recycled — 500 by one count. Perhaps twice that many now lie abandoned or little used, waiting for someone with imagination (and money) to imbue them with new purpose.

These 1973 counts were compiled by Architectural Forum. They are widely cited by people who work in the restoration area.

No one is certain what current figures are. But Robert McNulty, assistant director of the architecture and environmental arts program of the National Endowment for the Arts, says, "I would think, actually, things are speeding up" in the re-use field.

No federal help

For the last two years the federal government has been trying to get into the act — to provide federal funds to groups that want to recycle train stations. But as yet, "nothing really has happened," as Mr. McNulty says ruefully.

In July, 1974, Congress passed a law that was supposed to provide funds for this purpose, but for various reasons the money never was appropriated.

Earlier this year Congress made another try — also futile. It voted to provide $5 million to the National Endowment for the Arts to finance the planning and conversion of some stations. But legal experts found the bill "technically illegal," Mr. McNulty says — so no money has been spent.

Now the issue is back in Congress again. The bill is being reworked in hopes that this time it will be not only approved by Congress, but will be legal and will actually disburse money — provided, that is. Congress this late in the election year can get around to voting on railroad station preservation and re-use.

Bill supported

Nationwide there is considerable support for the bill, Mr. McNulty says. During these past 15 months, the endowment has received 300 to 400 letters from municipal officials and private groups offering to testify before Congress in support of the plan.

One state catalogued 32 stations which could be rehabilitated and put to good use — if it had the money. How many such stations are there nationwide? "We're talking in the thousands," says Mr. McNulty.

Meanwhile, Americans in far-flung parts of the United States have been recycling stations in recent years as they could get their hands on needed funds.

For instance, there is the newly renovated New London, Connecticut, station about to reopen, which Mr. McNulty calls "the perfect adaptive use of a railroad station." A small part still is being used as a railroad facility; the bulk of the station, no longer needed by the railroad, has become a public information center, restaurant and commercial development.

Other stations similarly have been transformed for non-railroad purposes:

• The Oberlin, Ohio, depot — built in 1866 — became a Head Start school.

• Yuma, Arizona's station resurfaced as a cultural center.

• In Chattanooga, Tennessee, the building was renovated for commercial use.

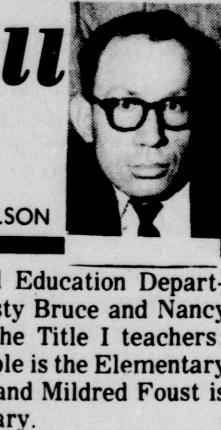

Then there is the reverse twist of Barnesville, Maryland, a small Washington suburb whose commuters now have no railroad station at all. They're casting covetous eyes at an abandoned brick building, vintage 1933, once used by the Washington Gas Light Company. They're trying to find enough money to move it trackside, rehabilitate it — and turn it into a working passenger train station.

In view of being up all night with Reagan and Ford, how do you assess your chances?

Reagan Considered a Woman for VP

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan stunned Washington with his announcement that, if nominated, he would choose Pennsylvania's liberal senator, Richard Schweiker, as his running mate.

We can report that, earlier, Reagan considered an even more startling candidate. He thought about naming a woman, ambassador to Britain Anne Armstrong, as his vice presidential choice.

But the Reagan staff conducted a confidential survey to find out whether the voters would accept a woman on the ticket. The survey showed decisively that Americans aren't yet ready for a woman vice president. The strongest sentiment against Anne Armstrong, surprisingly, came from — women.

The Reagan forces made a quiet check, meanwhile, to assure themselves that there are no skeletons in Richard Schweiker's closet.

Ronald Reagan refused to divulge his own income tax returns. So he did not ask for Schweiker's tax returns. But the Senator volunteered a complete financial statement. This shows his income has averaged around $60,000 a year since he was elected to the Senate.

They also discussed Schweiker's health. He offered to send Reagan a full medical report. This will show no physical problems, except that he is hard of hearing and sometimes wears a hearing aid.

Pentagon Promotion: The military services waste more money than all the other government departments combined. Yet the House has appointed one of the pentagon's most obliging friends, Rep. Edward Hebert, D-La., to investigate the extravagance.

Hebert has passed up many chances to win headlines and save the taxpayers' money. But his investigations subcommittee has finally held a hearing. It did not take up a multi-million-dollar scandal, but a 200-year-old personnel matter.

There has been only one General of the Armies of the United States. He was John Pershing, who commanded the U.S. Army during World War I. Some people think this is a slight to our first and foremost general, George Washington.

So Hebert's subcommittee took up a bill to promote George Washington retroactively. He will be listed in the military records, if the bill passes, as the first General of the Armies of the United States.

Benevolent Brass: We previously reported that the shah of Iran has squandered his oil billions on modern weapons faster than his armed forces can assimilate them. The United States rushed over technicians to help the shah straighten out the military foul-up.

These latter-day bounty hunters, if they ever get on your trail, will annoy your neighbors, badger your boss and accost you in public. They will ask your boss how he can employ a deadbeat. They will complain loudly in front of others about the money you owe. They will make themselves so obnoxious that you will pay to get them off your back.

Our stories encouraged Rep. Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., to introduce a bill which would crack down on the shady collectors. The bill provides penalties for those who use threats, misrepresent themselves or engage in harassment tactics.

The debt collectors have been busily lobbying to block the bill. Perhaps Congress also should hear from people who don't like phone calls in the middle of the night, ugly threats and other harassing tactics by debt collectors.

Wayne Stays: It appears that congressman Wayne Hays, the central figure in the Washington sex scandals, intends to fight to keep his seat. He recently told us he had polled his campaign lieutenants. All of them urged him to stay in the race.

Hays said his blood pressure is low, he tires quickly, and he's still under a doctor's care. But he is beginning to feel better. If he continues to recover, he said, he'll run for re-election.

Block closing recommended

The Georgetown Planning and Zoning Commission voted last week to recommend to the City Council that the block of Forest Street between Eighth and Ninth Streets be closed so municipal facilities on each side of the street can be fenced in to form a single unit.

Zones also decided to recommend rezoning of lot 1, block 7, from .37 acre to two lots, one .20 acre and the other .17 acre. The lot is located behind the Georgetown Inn.

A final draft of the comprehensive city plan was also submitted to the Zoning Commission by Sam Wyse and Associates of Dallas.

1977 county budget in the works—

By NEL PERSKY

Consideration of 1977 budget requests is slated for county commissioners' regular monthly meeting Monday at 10 a.m. in the commissioners' courtroom on the first floor of the county courthouse.

All meetings are public and may be attended by anyone wishing to observe or comment on proceedings.

A $50-per-month salary increase for all or most county employees is reportedly being considered by commissioners, who received multiple requests that salaries be raised 10 percent in 1977.

Individual requests from county officials were studied July 16, when courthouse officers met to discuss their needs with Commissioners Wesley Johnson, Georgetown Precinct 1, Wesley Foust, Florence Precinct 2, Robert Rozacky, Granger Precinct 3, W. F. Schlickeisen of Taylor, Precinct 4 and C. L. Chance, presiding judge.

Tentative decisions to approve or reject each requested item were made at that time, at Foust's suggestion.

"When we go over them, let's act on them, disposing of them," he proposed. "No use in putting it off." (See request dispositions reported in related stories, this page.)

The Sunday SUN

TAXES WILL NOT be raised or lowered as a result of commissioners' final decisions on how high the county's 1977 budget will go, because property tax rates had already been lowered a nickel, at the July 12 meeting.

County property tax rates were lowered from the 1976 rate of 80 cents at that time.

while county assessment ratios of 31.25 percent and all other taxes collected by the county remain unchanged.

Net result of the action will be to lower county taxes somewhat in 1977.

The action was taken because the county officers' salary fund, comprised of fees collected in county and peace justice courts, has been accumulating, especially in the last three years. County Auditor Ben Kurio explained that the increase, due to the growing number of cases being handled in the county's legal offices, continued upward while officers' salaries underwent little change.

Vance, Lott request secretary, Walsh to start as assistant DA

District Judge Kirby Vance appeared with his successor Bill Lott, who won the Democratic nomination in May, to request that commissioners hire a fulltime secretary for the district judge.

"I feel by January 1, 1977, the caseload will be such that it will be necessary to have a secretary for the judge's correspondence and to be there to answer calls while court is in session. She should receive the same salary as the secretaries for the county judge and district attorney," wrote Vance in his formal request.

"I have suggested that the answering service of the criminal justice system all ring on a common board up there," proposed County Judge C. L.

Chance.

"THAT'S NOT going to do the typing, answering letters," objected Vance, and commissioners apparently agreed.

"I think you sure ought to have a secretary," Wesley Johnson told him, "if Chance and some of these others have one."

Also approved was Vance's request that Edward Walsh, district attorney-elect, be employed at least part-time to assist District Attorney William Connor, "so that he will have some prosecution experience when he takes office in January.

"He's going to be a worker, but a little experience would help him a whole lot before he takes the reins," Vance told commissioners.

No date was set for hiring the incoming officer because Walsh has not yet been contacted as to his availability.

Vance requested salary increases for his appointees — auditor's office personnel and the court reporter, — in the amount of 10 percent.

"If everybody gets a raise, don't leave them out," Vance explained the request.

"I don't think we've ever overlooked anybody," said Commissioner Wesley Foust, implying that an across-the-board salary is being contemplated, although not necessarily the 10 percent Vance requested.

"I AM ANTICIPATING making some changes in the way the docket is handled," Lott told the court. "We are going to ask the lawyers to come in and start setting the cases, instead of calling the docket two times a year."

Lott received approval for an electric typewriter, dictating equipment, filing cabinet, office supplies and expenses, filing cabinet and shelving for a law library.

Rozacky had requested a $100,000 labor appropriation, excluding any salary increase approved by commissioners.

Schlickeisen's $221,500 request, including a $110,000 labor appropriation, was also less than certain after commissioners had agreed to cut Precinct 4 allocations 1 percent.

"If I have to build them myself I'll see that you get the shelves," Foust told him.

Request for an additional electric typewriter, to be used by the court reporter, was disapproved during the budget hearing.

All requests submitted by District Attorney Bill Connor and District Attorney-elect Walsh were approved with little discussion.

"THAT'S A GOOD ONE, I want to go through that right quick," Taylor Commissioner

W. F. Schlickeisen told commissioners shuffling through their pages of requests. "He doesn't ask for anything but what he needs to work with."

Tentative approval was given to supply a four-drawer filing cabinet, a two-drawer 5x3 card file and a legal-size shorthand book stand. A request that the telephone be changed to one with a hold button and intercom system for the two-office department will also probably go into the final budget.

District Clerk Kenneth "Bud" Jordan had one of the shortest requests among those submitted by courthouse officials.

Commissioners agreed to try to include a telephone extension for the Child Support Collection Department of his office in compliance with the one-item request.

Jordan's department presently houses three employees.

THE INCREASED COST of keeping up the courthouse — and all it stands for — was topic of a recent Friday session when county commissioners examined two dozen budget requests for the upcoming year. Items requested represent increases over the estimated $1,758,880.92 expenditures commissioners approved for 1976. Revenue sharing added another $277,426.79 to county spending power this year, and commissioners are waiting to see if another revenue sharing program is adopted by Congress, to begin in '77.

JP's receive school fees Constable requests car, arsenal

All justices of the peace submitted requests before the court included a $50 or $25 registration fee for in-service training school, necessitated because of a reduction in the Governor's Criminal Justice Division financial support to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

JP's are required to attend the schools in order to remain qualified to exercise their duties and responsibilities of office.

Fees, which do not go into effect until 1977, are for 20- and 40-hour school sessions.

In addition to the newly required fee of $50, JP Bill Hill, presiding over Justice Precinct 1 in the Georgetown area, received approval for one 36-drawer and one 5-drawer filing cabinet, as well as an extension telephone which, his request noted, was "requested in last year's budget — Needed at Once."

A WALKIE-TALKIE was disapproved for JP Richard B. Gann of Leander Justice Precinct 3, but his requests for the $25 fee and added income in salary and telephone allowances were at least partially granted.

He asked a $335 monthly salary increase and was given a pay hike of $85, up from his current $465 monthly to $550 per month. In addition to the telephone allowance approved by commissioners, Gann had requested utility and gasoline allowances which were not passed.

All Justice Precinct 6 JP Berneice Johnson of Round Rock requested in addition to the $25 fee was a used filing cabinet. Her request was approved.

No other formal budget requests were received from county peace justices.

Justice Precinct 6 Constable Charles Fuller of Taylor presented a seven-item request at little profit: only his final request was approved.

Fuller will receive a metal filing cabinet with locks as his share of the 1977 county budget allocation.

Although he will not be receiving the asked-for new electric typewriter and electric adding machine, commissioners did make plans to see that the constable gets used machines.

"I'm using a manual typewriter," said Foust. "I don't know why he can't."

On the adding machine Foust said, "We have got one that's loaned to the liquor board (Alcoholic Beverage Commission); we can call that one back." Later, however, he decided, "I'll bring one of my own calculator."

The adding machine was loaned to ABC Inspector Joe Saegert July 12.

DENIED were requests for a police car "fully equipped as the Sheriff Dept.," a finger-print field kit, "furnished (new) Rifle, Shotgun, and also pistol and equipment same as S.O. Dept.," and a $400 - a month police hik.

Fuller was the only constable making budget requests.

Although requests for a 10 percent salary increase for all employees, submitted by Tax Assessor-Collector William Buck and County Clerk Dick Cervenka, as well as Cervenka's 7 percent increase request for elected officials were exed off their budget requests along with other officers' salary hike requests, commissioners are expected to approve some pay increase for county employees in 1977 —

Pct. 1 to get 30 percent?

Requests for precinct funding, submitted by the four commissioners themselves, were approved with little discussion, not even when the Precinct 2 request for a change in the even-split method of dividing road money was read.

"That's not going to give Precinct 3 as much as I have asked, but I have gotten less," Rozacky indicated his willingness to support the change which would give his Granger-area precinct the sharpest cut — down to 22 percent of the Road and Bridge, Farm-to-Market and Lateral Road and State Highway funds.

Foust noted that the 3 percent cut from the even 25 percent each precinct now receives contrasted with the 8.5 percent of county taxes paid by county residents of Precinct 3.

"I don't see where they have got any complaint coming. I think it's fair," he said of the change which reduces both Precinct 2 and 4 funding by 1 percent to raise the percentage allocated Georgetown Precinct 1 up to 30.

State Lateral Road funds would continue to be divided evenly, 25 percent to each precinct, according to the proposal tentatively agreed to by all commissioners.

"I HATE to see it that way but that's the way it is," philosophized Rozacky lightly.

Johnson's $105,000 labor appropriation, a total which excludes any salary raises, was approved.

The balance of funding going into the precinct was approved for operating and maintenance.

Foust's $80,000 labor appropriation was also approved, with the remainder of Precinct 2 funds earmarked for road construction and necessary equipment for the operation of the precinct road and bridge department.

Rozacky had requested a $100,000 labor appropriation, excluding any salary increase approved by commissioners.

Schlickeisen's $221,500 request, including a $110,000 labor appropriation, was also less than certain after commissioners had agreed to cut Precinct 4 allocations 1 percent.

"If I have to build them myself I'll see that you get the shelves," Foust told him.

Request for an additional electric typewriter, to be used by the court reporter, was disapproved during the budget hearing.

All requests submitted by District Attorney Bill Connor and District Attorney-elect Walsh were approved with little discussion.

"THAT'S A GOOD ONE, I want to go through that right quick," Taylor Commissioner before commissioners to request establishment of a community education fund and a continuing legal education fund to commissioners.

In addition to a request for a mobile radio to be used by the juvenile probation officer, which had been approved July 26 contingent upon availability of a used unit, Chance recommended purchase of 2 moving radar units for $4,200 and 5 citizen-band radios for enforcement officers, at $750.

"Along with some wasted calls we're getting some good calls on CB," Sgt. Fred Hurst of the Texas Highway Patrol told commissioners. "We have made several good DWI (driving while intoxicated) cases. If you get good ones it's something to think about, if it's worth listening to the others. The days of working radar sitting still are past, due to the CB system."

But commissioners vetoed every request they received for CB's, and made no audible agreement to approve Chance's request for the mobile radio unit.

"We do all of JP One's paperwork," Bossard replied. "The first 15 or 16 days (of July) we had 80 prisoners in our jail, 9 of them felony prisoners."

"I WOULD LIKE to see your department and the commissioners' court and the elected constables of Williamson County discuss this law enforcement in Williamson County in general. Nothing bad is going to come of it and something good might come from it."

"We do all of JP One's paperwork," Bossard replied. "The first 15 or 16 days (of July) we had 80 prisoners in our jail, 9 of them felony prisoners."

"I DON'T think numbers are going to solve your problem," Foust told the sheriff. "I don't work as many men as these other men (commissioners), but I get by."

"I wish these dispatchers would be fully utilized."

Bossard countered Foust's proposal with recitation of a recent incident when three burglaries were reported simultaneously one night.

He explained that the dispatcher on duty had sent the night deputy to answer call and roused another off-duty deputy to answer the other. To handle the third complaint, he had been advised to call Constable Charles Fuller of Taylor, in whose precinct the burglary allegedly occurred.

"I just don't know how close

"We have seminars going on practically every month of the year across the state," he said.

BOTH REQUESTS received commissioners' nods of approval, as did the third proposal, continuation of the VOE (Vocational Office Education) Program.

Under the program, started in the county attorney's office early this year, high school students are employed four hours daily at an hourly rate of three-quarters the minimum wage.

Stubblefield additionally asked that acoustical ceilings and/or carpeting be installed in the three offices comprising the county attorney's department, to reduce noise levels he termed "deafening." The incoming officer listed "two IBM typewriters in almost-constant use and two window units," as well as the small volume and the shape of the rooms, and ceiling, wall and floor surfaces which he said are reflective, as contributing to the noise.

"Many times interviews and telephone calls must be stopped due to the noise level. I've had to take them out in the hall and talk. It's a constant aggravation."

"We'll just look into that; that's all we can do," Foust decided.

Later he told fellow commissioners, "I don't know about that carpet business, either. I wanted to put that in here (commissioners' new courtroom) and thought better of it."

RESPONSE TO the final request, that an assistant county attorney be employed under the CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program to work under Stubblefield next year, was as indecisive.

Foust explained that government funding for the Title VI program, emergency aid for public service jobs, has expired. The program is being phased out through the end of this year with Title II funding and has not received Congressional approval for a 1977 allocation.

"Should the CETA funds become unavailable in the year of 1977 I feel it is necessary that an assistant be there," Stubblefield maintained. "It would be impossible, in my view, for one person to handle the caseload we have."

Stubblefield also requested a $200-a-month raise for the assistant, up to $900 monthly. He told commissioners that the monthly salary of $700 which he now receives is "well below that offered to most first-year attorneys by government agencies, firms and individual attorneys," added that he does have applications for the job which will be opening January 1.

first five months in 1969 to $58,434.58 collected from January through May, 1976.

In 1969, according to the report, 126 cases were handled by the department and 7 persons paid their fines in jail time between January and May. The 1976 totals were 419 cases and 19 laid out in jail.

ITEMS KURIO noted in addition include the extra allocations necessitated by the fact that CETA-employed jailers will be added to the county payroll as the Comprehensive Employment Training Act Title VI for emergency employment is phased out in late 1976.

No other CETA employees are expected to be paid by the county after the federal funding is exhausted. Commissioners had approved their employment, including that of the assistant county attorney and the auditor's systems analyst, with the condition that Title VI funding be available.

• a recent devaluation for the Westinghouse Company, caused by removal of heavy equipment;

• adjustment for additional telephones installed;

• salary adjustments;

• renewal of two assistant county agents;

• a monthly Xerox bill of $455.

Asst. auditor asked Grants - ambulance checked

A fulltime assistant was the only request submitted for the county auditor's office, although Auditor Ben Kurio also presented a second request sheet to commissioners, listing 15 general items which will need to be considered as the proposed budget is figured.

Kurio prefaced his own request for additional office help by citing "the growth of Williamson County, the increased fees of office collected by the various county offices and the justices of the peace, the receipts and expenditures of the Williamson County Emergency Medical Service, the record-keeping and report requirements of Federal Revenue Sharing and the various grant programs."

Currently working under Kurio is one assistant auditor and a clerk, both fulltime employees.

But he also explained that the assistant, who would take the place of the CETA employee currently employed in that office, is intended to work on a parttime basis. Request that provision for a fulltime assistant salaried in the range of $700-$750 per month go into the budget planning was made, Kurio explained, only in case it became apparent that a fulltime employee would be needed to effectively audit all county and precinct financial records. He told commissioners that a retired person with auditing experience or someone with another parttime job would be sought.

Angie Dickinson: "I like to fast, I try to do it one or two days a month. It rinses out the system."

Johnny Carson: "I don't fast. I like to eat when I'm hungry. Sometimes I go all day without eating until at night."

Johnny Carson: "It was so hot today, I saw a fat man in a car wash impersonating a Buick... It was so hot today, Paul Williams bought a pint of vanilla ice cream and got in... It was so hot today, I passed a Brink's car and it had a screen door."

Rich Little: "Of all my impressions, when I do Paul Lynde it's instant recognition."

Bob Hope: "Danny Thomas is the only person I know with stained glass contact lenses."

Carol Channing: "I think George Burns and Gracie Allen were the aristocracy of the theatre."

John Davidson: "The power of TV is so great that even when you play in small towns, you play as if you were in a big city."

Tony Randall: "I once went into a restaurant with Steve Lawrence and Mel Torme. A woman said, 'There's Steve Lawrence and Mel Torme and what's his name.'"

Neil Sedaka: "My last six songs have each been performed more than 400,000 times on radio or TV."

Gregory Peck: "My first job in show business was as a carnival grinder. That's the guy who draws the crowd in off the midway so that the barker can lure them up to the ticket window and into the tent."

Sandy Duncan: "Snakes are really graceful, but the idea of having them in my yard really offends me."

Joan Rivers: "I've begun to tell my daughter about the facts of life. I've told her that sex is like a ride at Disneyland, ... it takes a long time to get on, and it's over before you know it."

Freddie Prinze: "It's always the little things that will bug me in my marriage — taking out the garbage, or liking or not liking the same film."

NORTHSTAR ELECTRONICS

HOROSCOPE

by Aboudé

ARIES March 21-April 20

You'll find that most of your difficulties can be eliminated if you slow yourself down and listen to people. Prejudiced attitudes must be overcome.

TAURUS April 21-May 21

Though you're inclined to be a good money manager, you could find yourself becoming impulsive. Think before spending.

GEMINI May 22-June 21

You could be asking too many questions. Direct your inquisitive nature towards more knowledge of the business world.

CANCER June 22-July 23

Health matters are of importance. Get reassurance from one close to you concerning financial endeavors. Your recent project is sure to succeed.

LEO July 24-August 23

The only good day for you is Saturday. Spend this week quietly and without plans. Handle people, especially loved one, with extra care.

VIRGO Aug. 24-Sept. 23

Involving an elder, extra courtesy is advised. Friends and associates could use your encouragement since they respect your opinion a great deal.

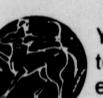

LIBRA Sept. 24-Oct. 23

Your generosity may be showing too much. Curb your sympathies towards those who aren't close to you. An emotional upset will come and quickly go.

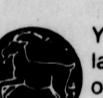

SCORPIO Oct. 24-Nov. 22

You may be using people who will later get even. Toying with emotions is dangerous. More sincerity on your part, good and bad, will redeem you.

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23-Dec. 21

You can be too easy-going for some higher ups to take you seriously. If your point is important enough to get across, stop flitting and get it across!

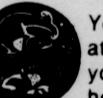

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 20

You could waste this week resting on your laurels, but you'll also lose respect of certain others. Help those who need you to mend or overcome personality problems.

AQUARIUS Jan. 21-Feb. 19

The best days for you this week are Wednesday and Thursday. Enjoy a movie or sport. Working with your partners can almost guarantee success.

PISCES Feb. 20-March 20

You don't usually choose to be conservative, but at this time it's wise. You may be controlling your emotions too much, let go a little, for your health.

SPACE MYSTERY — There used to be a syndicated show on TV called U.F.O. Ed Bishop and Michael Billington were the stars. Could you tell me the names of their characters and the name of the organization they worked for? Also, will the show ever be on again?

— Sarah Josephs, Alexandria, La.

The characters were Straker and Foster, and the U.F.O. spotting agency was dubbed SHADOW. The series is still in syndication and is carried in a number of markets. Perhaps you can convince your local station to pick it up again.

SLITHER — Does my memory serve me well — was Louise Lasser in a movie some years back with James Caan that had everyone riding around in mobile homes?

— Jack Newston, Bridgeport, Conn. There's nothing wrong with your memory. Lasser co-starred with Caan, along with Sally Kellerman and Peter Boyle, in a somewhat peculiar comedy called "Slither," made in 1973.

TV WAR — My sister and I have been arguing about a show that was on in the mid '60s about a schooner operating undercover during WW II. Jack Warden and Gary Collins starred. The question is was it The Wackiest Ship in the Army, or Navy?

— Marthe Boldis, Santa Barbara, Calif.

I don't know which side of the argument you're on, but the Kiwi and its crew worked for Army intelligence.

Myth to reality in the Old West

After years of misleading our children, and subjecting ourselves to the usually mindless and inaccurate fairy tales known as TV westerns, it is refreshing to learn at least one studio is as committed to fact as it is to entertainment in its presentation of a posh/horse opera.

The Yale University Media Design budget willing, plans to produce a series of 10 biographical television dramas based on the history of the American West, examining the years between 1770 to 1930.

The documentary series, titled "The Westering", has one episode in the can — a bio-drama of Old West legend Charles Siringo, onetime cowpuncher, detective, author and Hollywood extra.

The primary obstacle facing the Media Design Studio is a familiar one — bucks, or the lack thereof. Thanks to a grant of $44,000 from the National Endowment for Humanities, the studio and producer-director Philip Garvin were able to complete this first 90-

There is talk in the air of turning this into a series, which would mean that years might go by before Andrew's destiny catches up with him. The most interesting note here is how the network has managed to take the villainous babe of the original, lop off his little horns and hooves and turn him into a persecuted youth. The better to sell advertising with, my dear.

Robert Forster, who had a couple of unsuccessful series of his own, (Nakia and Banyon) turns up next season in an episode of NBC's Gibbsville. He plays a has-been boxer who lands a job as a bouncer in a bar... Dina Merrill, Carol Lynley, Monte Markham and Phyllis Newman head the guest cast of "Who's Who in Neverland," the second episode of "Quincy" to go before the cameras. This latest entry in the NBC Sunday Mystery Movie string stars Jack Klugman as a hard-driving medical examiner.

Kevin Dobson escapes from the seedy streets of New York's Kojak, but ends up in a worse predicament in "Stranded," airing Friday, Aug. 20 over CBS. He heads a band of modern-day castaways lost in the South Pacific in this repeat TV movie... Susan Dey, who was a singing Partridge some years back, guests with Christopher Connelly in "The Captive," the 90-minute premiere of The Quest.

Lily Tomlin, who won three Emmy Awards as writer and star of her own TV specials, will be a guest-participant on "People."

This 90-minute late night special, airing Saturday, Aug. 28 over NBC, bills itself as a magazine-in-motion. Essentially, the show is an attempt to bring to life the format of People magazine... The networks have been tossing off quite a few unsuccessful comedy pilots recently. This week NBC unloads a batch starring such comedy pros as Jack Weston, Marge Redmond, Michele Lee, James Coco, Patty Duke Astin, and John Astin. Most of the themes revolve around couples -- divorced, separated, fighting and so on. It seems happy marriages aren't that funny.

That talented actor Billy Barty, who was excellent in last year's Hollywood misadventure "The Day of the Locust," turns up in another one of those pilots that never got past its first episode. Don't Call Us is the show, airing August 13 over CBS. In it he plays half of a performing midget team (the other half played by Patty Maloney), who is represented by a talent agency headed by Jack Gilford and Allan Miller... The guest roster for "Perry Como, Las Vegas-Style" has been announced. Vying for the spotlight in this special to air September 11, will be Ann-Margret, Rich Little, The Marquis Chimps and Los Pampas-Gouchos of Argentina.

Medical supplies $6,427—Round Rock station included

The Sunday SUN Georgetown
Page 5 Sunday, August 8, 1976

Commissioners cut the estimated $8,970 emergency medical services supply budget to $6,427.86 but softened their action by agreeing to consider using federal revenue sharing funds to purchase the deleted $2,542.24 worth of advanced medical supplies.

Questioned about the amount of supplies requested, EMS Director James Simonson explained that his interest is in upgrading the service to include advanced techniques including intravenous infusion and intubation procedures.

"We have the ability right now to start intubation at one of the stations—Georgetown Hospital." Training would be required before personnel at other stations could perform the technique.

"I'd just like to see if we can get the money set aside for the advance supplies and if we don't get the advanced training the money would not be used. Medical supplies right now are stable. My supplies should last all the way up until the first of the year."

Simonson also noted that estimated prices and totals did not include the discount the county will probably receive when bids are taken for the supplies.

When individual items were discussed, commissioners questioned the need for a $400 two-way handie-talkie radio listed with inventory needed for 1976-77 operations. Items were also included under two other subheads, training equipment and advanced supplies.

"I have been using that for my office," Simonson explained that he had tried a unit on loan from Boutwell Aviation, "and when we have problems with the unit radios they have been using it. It has been handy—there's a need for it."

An estimated $500 for 3 persons to attend the Texas A&M extrication school was also mentioned as commissioners scanned the four-page request, but tentatively agreed to let the item pass into the 1977 budget.

DEBATE AROSE over a 4-ton hydraulic jack for extrication emergencies, estimated to cost $400.

"That was one of the provisions (made when the service was adopted by the county and units standardized) that we specified in releasing that money," Foust objected to the item, "that they not overstock that ambulance. And I see that is already happening."

"They have got a wrecker problem at Cedar Park, where we have most of the car wrecks," explained Simonson.

"I think we are getting into an area where expenses are unlimited and requests are unlimited. This is expensive enough as it is," maintained the Florence commissioner. "Once you buy one for one department you are going to have requests for the other departments."

INFATABLE trousers costing $50 a pair, were next up for discussion.

Explaining that the trousers act to push blood from the lower extremities up to vital organs, used when a patient's blood pressure is almost nonexistent, Simonson said, "It's like a self-transfusion."

"I am trying to get our service just as advanced as anybody else's services. I don't want to stagnate and watch others advance."

"I personally don't want to stay up with the City of Austin," Foust countered Simonson's defense. "I am interested in what we need in Williamson County. I can see $2,200 or $2,300 that I feel is unnecessary. I can go a little further," he flipped the pages, "and see some more."

An estimated $500 for 3 per-

Health, child welfare try for $29,600

An estimated total budget of $175,111—including the county's share of $20,800—received commissioners' tentative approval despite the fact that only $20,000 had been appropriated from revenue sharing funding for the office.

Commissioners agreed the additional $6,000 would be worked into the 1977 county budget.

Health Unit Director Donald Myers had presented the six-page budget at an earlier meeting.

Myers' request to the court explained, "The total cost of health services provided by the Williamson County Health Department will be $175,111 or approximately $3.89 per capita for each of the 45,000 citizens of the county."

"IN SPITE OF increased costs and increased total budget, this represents a reduction of 40 cents per capita. In

Also formally presented at an earlier commissioners' court was the Williamson County Child Welfare budget request of $9,000. Commissioners pared the request to $7,500.

Linda Graves of Georgetown, Welfare Board co-chairman with Jerry Goree, had explained that foster care costs for the county was increased because more children who do not qualify for social security or aid to dependent children have been added to the county department.

Her request for $6,000—up from the $3,200 of 1976—was reduced by commissioners to $4,650.

CLOTHING COSTS were reduced on the request from $2,100 to $2,000 and approved by the court. Also approved was the $200 provided for legal services and another $200 for special needs. Both requests were identical to those of the previous year.

A two-fold increase was asked in medical, legal and psychiatric services because, Mrs. Graves told the court, more children with deep emotional disturbances are being seen.

Instead of the requested $600 for 1977, commissioners approved a $150-hike over last year's $300 allocation.

Commissioners also handled an eleven-item budget request from Dr. Glenn Lee of Taylor, the county's veteran's service officer.

LEE REQUESTED a $10,000 annual salary—but will receive only the "usual increase"—whatever other county employees receive.

He also was denied requests for $50 monthly for utilities, $50 annually for postage, a 15 cents-per-mile per diem, a Xerox copier, four chairs, a calculator and a telephone for $180 annually.

Lee will receive one used electric typewriter and $100 to attend an annual seminar. He had requested $200 to attend two seminars.

Commissioners decided to add it to the list of items to be considered for funding through the county's revenue sharing grant. "We'll look at it later," Foust said.

"I AM NOT trying to get you guys," the EMS director protested. "I am trying to stay as advanced as I can. I've heard Judge Chance say he would like to see us second to none and I thought you felt the same."

"I am just trying to keep up and give the patient in Williamson County the best possible care." As the service offered by the County EMS was brought up, Foust mentioned "too much time spent at the scene" and "two many attendants trying to practice medicine" as complaints he has received.

Chance defended the complaints by reporting, "Ambulance people are doing more and more stabilizing before transporting patients."

But Foust had a counter to that, too, noting the money spent by the county on better ambulances so attendants can treat patients en route to the Granger area.

"I feel that right there is where we could provide more advanced training and equipment for those we do employ," he replied to Simonson's affirmative.

"You know I agree with you," he continued. "You can look at the monthly reports, look at Cedar Park and Round Rock both—it's not just one of them, it's both."

"DO YOU STILL feel that we have a need to reduce the number of vehicles in the county?" he asked Simonson in a reference to the director's proposal that the Round Rock station be closed and a volunteer unit be started in the Granger area.

"I feel that right there is where we could provide more advanced training and equipment for those we do employ," he replied to Simonson's affirmative.

"You know I agree with you," he continued. "You can look at the monthly reports, look at Cedar Park and Round Rock both—it's not just one of them, it's both."

"It's real confusing to me to see them continue and continue and continue to just make as many 1066's (no pickups) as they did pickups."

"I'M NOT STANDING UP for anybody, but we have to remember we are a public organization and when somebody calls for an ambulance, we have to go," Simonson pointed out. He added, however, that the Cedar Park Police Department has been screening ambulance calls in the area to see that the ambulance is sent out only when injuries are actually present.

Rozacky made the motion, seconded by Schlickkeisen, which finally ended the discussion by approving operating supplies and training equipment and holding action on the advanced supplies until later.

- a $750 movie projector for the county extension office;
- a new ambulance for Florence;
- as much as $2,542.24 in advanced medical supplies for the county emergency medical service;

Commissioners made allocation plans for the last entitlement period.

Included in the items referred to revenue sharing were the following:

• estimated plans for the last entitlement period.

• estimated plans for the last entitlement period

The Tie that binds

A true love for our Lord and Saviour binds our hearts in Christian love.

This love encourages us to put our energies and efforts together to serve our Lord at home, at work, and at Church.

A truly wonderful fellowship exists for those who believe and worship together. Attend Church and worship with kindred minds.

"That I may come unto you with joy by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed."

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

WHAT IS 4-H? — 4-H is an informal, practical, learning-by-doing educational program. It helps youth establish real-life goals and become competent, productive citizens. 4-H gives young people an opportunity to take an active part in learning about and solving problems that face them and their communities. Often the knowledge and skills they develop through 4-H work opens the door to a lifetime of personal growth.

Today's 4-H program is for all youth—rural and urban—from all racial, cultural, economic and social backgrounds. It reaches girls and boys in a variety of ways: as members of organized 4-H clubs, as participants in special interest groups, as enrollees in short-term projects. It reaches them through television, camping and other educational methods; and in programs planned to meet specific needs of youth and the communities where they live.

4-H involves young people everywhere—in big cities and little towns, in the country, and

Jarrell revises free lunch scale

Jarrell Independent School District has amended the income scale used to determine eligibility for free and reduced-price lunches as well as the School breakfast and Special Milk programs.

This year's scale represents a 25 percent increase in the minimum eligibility incomes for free lunches and a 95 percent increase in those for reduced-price lunches.

Students from families of the sizes and with the incomes shown in the scale are eligible for free lunches as well as reduced-price lunches of 20¢ or less and reduced-price breakfasts of a dime or less. Those who qualify for free lunches are also eligible for an additional, free half-pint of milk in schools which participate in the Special Milk Program.

Fighting range fires

Most kitchen range fires occur when cooking oil, fat on meat or clothing touches a hot element or burner.

The Food and Drug Administration's Bureau of Product Safety estimates that about 100,000 burn accidents from kitchen ranges occur each year.

Some practical guidelines for dealing with a fire in the kitchen are offered below.

If a fat fire should start in the cookware on the range's surface units — or in a fondue pot or electric skillet — immediately cover the pan and turn off the source of heat.

Use a fire extinguisher if the fire should spread. Or baking soda may be thrown on the fire if an extinguisher isn't available. Never try to carry flaming cookware outside or to the sink, and do not throw water on a grease fire. Water only causes grease fires to spread.

If a fire starts in the oven or broiler, close the door, turn off the source of heat and keep the door closed. With limited air, the fire should go out within minutes.

You can minimize the risk of a broiler fire by using slotted, solid racks which allow good grease drainage but shield the fat from the heat source. Do not use a broiler pan with an open, wire rack unless it is deep enough to add water beforehand to cool the fat.

Some simple precautions can reduce chances of a range fire.

W-BCO meeting canceled

Nat Lopez of Georgetown and D. V. Hammond of Burnet were recently appointed to serve under Nominating Committee Chairman David Lilley of Marble Falls to select a slate of officers of the Board of Directors of Williamson-Burnet County Opportunities, Inc.

Appointments were made by Troy Brasel, board chairman.

Brasel also cancelled the regularly scheduled W-BCO meeting, which would have been held Monday night, "since there is no pressing business to bring before the board in August."

Officer elections will be held during the regular meeting September 13 to fill a three-man slate, including a chairman from among Williamson County board members.

Washington Report

Congressman J. J. Pickle

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Few issues have received as much publicity and debate this year as the Estate Tax Reform proposal that Congress is now considering.

This much-needed revision of our tax code moved one step closer to becoming law last week when the Ways and Means Committee, of which I am a member, completed writing the bill that we will present to the full House for debate sometime in August.

I believe that our bill will provide meaningful relief from excessive federal estate taxes for small and moderate-size estates.

The major provision of the bill will replace the present $60,000 tax exemption with a tax credit equivalent to a $153,750 exemption. The new credit will be phased in over a three year period.

It will also greatly benefit the farmers, ranchers and small businessmen by allowing them to evaluate their property at its current use value instead of the market value which may be inflated because of land speculation.

In addition, there is a provision that allows a 15 year extension of time for payment of estate taxes.

However, there is one section of the bill which I opposed during our committee hearings and I hope it will be removed from the bill later. That is the "carry over" provision which requires that the original purchase value of property be

Assembly of God has youth revival

The Rev. David Snodgrass will be the featured speaker at the First Assembly of God Church Sunday through Friday, August 8-13.

Sunday services will be at 6:30 p.m. and week day services will be at 7 p.m.

The services will be slanted toward youth, but all ages are invited to attend, according to the pastor, W. W. Cothran.

retained for income tax purposes when the property is transferred at death.

This would have no effect on the taxes which must be paid on an estate at the time of death but would increase the capital gains tax if the property is later sold by the heir.

While this only applies to property over $60,000, I oppose it because it is the first step toward establishing a tax on capital gains at the time of death.

There will be much more debate on this bill in the House and the Senate but some form of meaningful estate tax revision should be approved by Congress this year.

Leander tax board to meet Thursday

The Leander Board of Equalization will meet Thursday night at 7 p.m. in the administration building to consider the tax rolls for this year.

All persons wishing to appear before the board should call the tax assessor-collector's office to arrange a time.

Members of the board are Agnes Stevens Wade, George Agnew and Tommy Simons. An alternate to the board will be appointed by the board of trustees of the Leander school district at their meeting Thursday night.

Simons was appointed by the board Aug. 3 after the resignation of both Kenneth Bell and Joy Alley.

Football practice to begin

Football practice begins Monday, with Georgetown workouts starting at 8 a.m.

Varsity football players will be on the practice field from 8 to 9 a.m.; in the weightroom from 9:30 to 10:15; in "skull" session classroom 10:15 to 11:15. Afternoon sessions begin at 4:15 with skull sessions to 4:45, and practice from 5-7 p.m.

The JV schedule will be weights, 8:30 a.m.; skull session, 8:30-9:15; on the field, 9:30-11:15; and again on the field, 3:30-4:45 p.m.

Freshmen will begin with skull sessions at 8 a.m.; weights at 8:30; on the field 9:30 to 11; and again from 3:45 p.m.

The workout schedule will be in effect until school starts Aug. 23.

The first football games will be Sept. 2 for the freshmen and junior varsity, and Sept. 3 at Copperas Cove for the varsity.

LEADER

Leander workouts also begin Monday, with varsity practice beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Leander's first game will be Sept. 3 against Pflugerville.

Dove season set

A five-day white winged dove season and split mourning dove seasons for both the North and South Zones with full-day hunting during the winter segments have been established by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Whitewing season will run Sept. 4, 5, 6, 11 and 12 from noon to sunset in Brewster, Cameron, Culberson, El Paso, Hidalgo, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Kinney, Maverick, Presidio, Starr, Terrell, Val Verde, Webb, Willacy and Zapata Counties.

During the concurrent mourning and white-winged dove season one fully feathered wing must remain attached to dressed birds while being transported between the place taken and a commercial processing facility or hunter's home. One fully feathered wing must remain attached to all migratory game birds imported from Mexico.

Daily bag on either mourning or white-winged doves is 10 birds, with possession limit of 20, and applies to all Texas dove seasons.

North Zone dove season is set for Sept. 1 - Oct. 14 from noon to sunset, and Jan. 1-16, 1977, 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset, except in those counties west of the Pecos River where the season ends at sunset Jan. 15.

A similar split season is set for South Zone counties: Sept. 25 - Nov. 7, noon to sunset, and Jan. 1-16, 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset. However, fall mourning dove hunting in those South Zone counties with a whitewing season will end Nov. 2.

Last year an experimental all-day season was tried in the winter segment of the South Zone with no appreciable change in dove harvest. Hunters contacted by the Parks and Wildlife Department generally were pleased with the additional hunting opportunity whether they took more doves or not.

The last year of all-day dove hunting was 1950.

All of the new regulations as adopted by the P&W Commission are within frameworks established by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which released the maximum allowable rules for Texas and the Central Management Unit earlier this month after study of migratory bird population reports and discussion with member states, interested agencies and the public.

Commissioners were told the 1976 white-winged dove breeding population is some 530,000 birds, the third highest population within the last 10 years. Adult mourning doves posted a modest six percent increase over 1975.

The commission also set seasons and bag limits for other migratory game birds including:

• King and clapper rails: Sept. 1-Nov. 9, Trans-Pecos season ends Oct. 31. Bag limit is 15 in the aggregate and possession is 30 in the aggregate.

• Sora and Virginia rails: Sept. 1 - Nov. 9, Trans-Pecos season ends Oct. 31; daily bag and possession limit, 25, singly or in the aggregate.

Shooting hours for all rails are from 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset.

• Gallinules: Sept. 1 - Nov. 9, Trans-Pecos season ends Oct. 31; hunting hours are 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset. Daily bag is 15, possession is 30.

In those counties west of the Pecos River, the combined daily bag limit on gallinules and all rails is 15 with a possession limit of 30, no more than 25 of which can be sora or Virginia rails.

• Special teal-only season: Sept. 18-26, bag of four birds in the aggregate, possession limit of eight birds in the aggregate. Shooting hours are sunrise to

by PATRICK CONWAY

AUSTIN — Agricultural production, along with food and medicine, has long been considered one of life's basic necessities and for that reason, the Legislature said in 1961 that all equipment and goods used in agriculture would not be taxable under the new sales tax law.

IN THE DECADE AND A HALF since the general law was passed, however, there has been a great deal of confusion and misunderstanding among farmers and ranchers, merchants who sell agricultural goods and the state's tax collector, the comptroller of public accounts.

It often fell to the comptroller to decide whether this item was or wasn't exempt from the sales tax and a list of tax-exempt goods evolved over the years but this list was rarely consistent and items were taken off and placed on the list just to fit a particular situation.

I'm glad to see that the Comptroller has moved to clarify this whole area with a new, full revision of the sales tax regulations regarding the taxing of products used by farmers and ranchers.

The new rules basically say this: if an item is going to be used in the production of crops, livestock and/or agricultural products, it is probably exempt from the sales tax.

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that a farmer or rancher is not automatically exempt from paying the sales tax, though. To get the exemption, the item has to be used exclusively on a farm or a ranch — and those are defined as land used entirely or partially to produce livestock, crops or other agricultural products.

One previously confusing part of the sales tax law was how someone actually got an exemption. Now if someone purchases something for exclusive use on his farm or ranch, he simply must present to the seller an exemption certificate that says he's going to use the item in agricultural production and therefore the seller is not required to collect the sales tax. The seller then will retain the exemption certificate at his business for inspection by the Comptroller.

Of course, some items are exempt from the tax, regardless of their use, and can be bought without an exemption certificate. These include feed for farm and ranch animals, seeds and annual plants, animals — the products of which are ordinarily food and horses, mules and other work animals.

And most other items are now under the exempt heading, thanks to this recent liberalized set of rules. Sometimes the tax people just "backed into" decisions about what should or should not be exempt. For instance, they always exempted an implant gun because it has no other use but on a ranch, but the tax was levied on a hammer because it wasn't exclusively an agricultural item just because a farmer bought it to use on the farm.

Now the tax exemption applies to things like medication, tonics, and other preparations for farm and ranch animals.

A lot of equipment will now be tax-exempt, too, if in the end it is used in connection with producing agriculture. In this category would come things like bailing wire and binding twine, fence wire and fence posts, repair or replacement parts used exclusively on farm machinery like tractor tires, and storage facilities for bulk commodities.

Some things around the old farm are still taxable though, and won't qualify for the exemption. These include structures that enclose a space which is used to provide living, working, office or sales space. Examples of this would be a garage or a warehouse.

This, of course, is just a general description of what the new rules speak to and questions on specific items ought to be directed to the comptroller's office.

On the local front — County traffic mishaps, all in the western end of the county, took six lives — Sheriff Bosshard and his people harvested a marijuana crop on the banks of North San Gabriel that was said to have a street value of $15,000 and filed charges against a 24-year-old Liberty Hill man — Georgetown schools are gearing up for fall registration — Westinghouse gave the Georgetown Hospital Authority $30,000 for the hospital — with Westinghouse manager Bob Finch putting a $15,000 check into Hospital Drive Chairman J. H. Compton's eager hand in a simple ceremony Monday — and, the weather warmed up considerably. We could use a bit of rain, nearly everyone agrees.

Firemen set to serve barbecue

Beef and barbecue sauce are being rounded up and the tables readied as the Georgetown Volunteer Fire Department prepares for its 16th Annual Family Barbecue from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. next Saturday in the San Gabriel Park Community Building.

Tickets for the event, featuring barbecue beef and all the trimmings, on plates to go, are $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 10.

Competition will be open to all comers.

Trustees discuss projected growth

Trustees "will take a look at the needs" of the Georgetown schools when they convene at 7 p.m. Monday.

Following the tour, board members will reconvene in the conference room of the high school to discuss the needs of the local schools through 1980 in conjunction with their projected enrollment chart for the next five years.

Georgetown ended the school year with an enrollment of 2,446. School officials anticipate 2,600 students when the school bell rings at 8:30 a.m. Monday, August 23.

Superintendent Jack Frost said the Primary school is in "the most critical need of repairs and expansion, especially with full-day kindergarten scheduled for the fall of 1977."

The Primary School now had eight half-day kindergarten classes, four meeting in the morning and four meeting in the afternoon, thus utilizing only four classrooms. In the fall of 1977, that will put the Primary school at least four classrooms short, not counting a possible record enrollment in any of the primary grades.

By 1980 school officials expect an enrollment of 3,014 students, 400 more than present.

County due three new election boxes

Georgetown, Round Rock and the Pond Springs area are all slated for new election boxes as county fathers meet Monday to consider election precinct changes as well as to take a second look at budget requests for 1977.

Commissioners discussed the changes — involving Georgetown Precincts 1 and 29, Round Rock Election Precinct 23, Pond Springs Precinct 5 and Taylor 27 — in May, but can take formal action on the matter only in July or August.

Circeville will receive some of the excess Taylor voters when new precincts are created in the other areas, according to county Clerk Dick Cervenka.

Texas election law prohibit precincts having more than 2,000 registered voters, as ascertained during the last general presidential election year.

INTERIM FUNDING arrangements for the juvenile probation officer also appear on the agenda. At commissioners' last meeting, Wesley Foust proposed that intern Glen Kratochvil of Taylor be hired when his internship ends August 10, even though the pending grant for employment of a fulltime juvenile probation officer has not been awarded.

Tear gas and $400-a-month pay hikes? Nel Persky details county budget requests, pages 4 & 5.

But Taylor Commissioner W. F. Schlickeisen pointed out that word of acceptance on the grant is expected in September, only two weeks from the date of Kratochvil's graduation from Sam Houston State University, and the matter was dropped.

Repeal of the statute permitting commissioners to terrace private lands for conservation purposes is another item to be discussed in the county court Monday morning. The item had been mentioned during commissioners' July 26 meeting in connection with a letter received from the state governor's office, requesting a list of items concerning county government which might be considered during the upcoming session of the Texas legislature.

At that time Foust opposed the proposed repeal; no official stance was taken by any of the other commissioners.

AS REQUIRED by Texas statutes, County Judge C. L. Chance will seek official court permission to leave the state during his upcoming vacation.

Annual request of state lateral road funds will be considered, along with the request by SUN reporter Nel Persky for permission to explore the courthouse dome clock tower.

Appointments to the Manpower Advisory Planning Council will be considered. Foust represents Williamson County in this capacity during 1976. At-large appointments to be considered include re-appointment of Georgetown Rev. M. H. VanHoosier as well as of Steve Quillia, director of the community action agency in Smithville. Ofelia T. Vasquez, director of the San Marcos CAA, and Phillip Waters, director of Capital Area Human Services, Inc. in San Marcos.

Appointments are for one year and must be approved in court action by each of the eight rural counties which belong to the Manpower consortium.

READY FOR SCHOOL? With the first day of school only two weeks away and Scenic Drive leading to Westside School dug out a foot or so — how are the buses gonna make it? Scenic Drive is being extended into a four-lane divided street west of the school. When completed it will extend to Leander Road, providing easier access to the new hospital site. The construction was originally scheduled for completion before the first day of classes.

Business starts boost local July building tally

Though home starts and total value of new construction fell to their lowest levels of 1976 in Georgetown last month, the city recorded its highest commercial construction value of year with three new retail projects.

According to the City Building Inspection Department's monthly report compiled by Mrs. Lucie Winters, $123,480 worth of new commercial construction was approved for location within the city limits during July, along with other types of building activity, which pushed total construction value last month to $314,070.

Among the new commercial starts are a $65,000 laundromat under construction across from Citizens Plaza Shopping Center, at 1103 S. Main St.; an $18,500 dental clinic to be located at 1950 S. Austin Ave.; and a new Crown and Whitten dental laboratory to be built at 2406 Dawn Dr.

THOSE FIRMS will join the $20,000 Wag-a-Bag grocery store and self-service gasoline station, approved during June and under construction at 602 E. University Ave., as new local business ventures.

Two municipal building projects were also approved last month, including the new city warehouse under construction at 310 W. Eighth St. and an $11,465 addition to the Stonehaven Center.

But the July construction value represented the lowest monthly mark this year, $86,680 behind the June total and $310,630 below the total of July, 1975.

So far this year, $4,121,974 worth of new projects have been approved for construction within city limits, $213,761 behind the total as of the same time a year ago.

Only 15 new home starts were recorded in and around Georgetown during July, also a monthly low.

Estimated value of the new residences ranged from $18,500 to $40,000, with five homes marked for location inside the city limits and nine to be built in nearby northwest subdivisions.

The five new homes to be built within the city were valued at a total of $148,000. Two will be located in San Gabriel Heights, one in the Quail Meadows development, one in the Urban Renewal Addition, and one in Gabriel View.

Four of the nine new homes planned for construction outside the city will be located in Serenada Estates, while two will be built in Golden Oaks, two in Oak Crest Riverside, and one in Oak Crest I.

The city has recorded 155 new home starts this year, valued at a total of $2,526,650, including 82 new residences within the city limits and 73 in outlying subdivisions. That total is still 82 ahead of the previous high of 73 reached in 1973.

Other new construction last month included two relocation and demolition projects valued at $1,925, two residential additions worth $7,200 and three commercial additions worth $22,000.

City contract award set Tues.

Georgetown's City Council is scheduled to award a contract for construction of three local drainage projects, consider advertising for bids to build the new city bike and bike trail, and open bids to supply the city gas and oil in its regular meeting in City Hall at 7 p.m. Tuesday.

During a special Council session July 28 R. D. Parker construction company of Georgetown submitted the low bid of $119,396 for construction of drainage projects on Ash Street, West Fourteenth Street, and in the San Jose Street area.

Construction will be paid for with funds from the city's 1976 Community Development grant.

Although the Georgetown company submitted its bid just past the bid deadline at that meeting, none of the three competing firms registered protests, so the contract is expected to go to Parker.

The new bike and bike trail, which will connect Georgetown's VFW and San Gabriel parks, will be paid for with city funds matched by a $23,100 federal grant approved in July.

ALSO TUESDAY. Councilmen will consider authorizing the city administration to purchase 7.89 acres of land in southeast Georgetown, soon to be abandoned by the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad. Preliminary estimates placed cost of the property at about $6,000.

The Council will also study appointment of an Airport Advisory Board, hear second reading of an ordinance annexing Northwood Oaks, consider a resolution authorizing lease of city land for a Georgetown Jaycee Club building site, and hear second reading of an ordinance amending hours for local amusements parlors.

The marijuana patch in west Williamson County, discovered and destroyed by sheriff's officers this week, is going to cost taxpayers a pretty penny before all's said and done.

SHERIFF BOSSHARD estimated that a total of 420 hours of police work, including many hours of surveillance, had gone into the case at the time the arrests were made. Add the trial costs and, if a conviction is obtained and a jail sentence meted out, we taxpayers will be forking over far more than the $15,000 street value the weed is supposed to have. The cost of crime is high. Could there be some method of prevention devised?

Week's news in a nutshell

Ronald Reagan's selection of Senator Richard Schweiker still has the press titillated. Time Magazine said flatly it was a gigantic mistake on Reagan's part and handed the GOP nomination over to Ford. Later during the week, however, Gov. Reagan was counting some extra delegate noses and talking a good game. So, it's still up in the air — the nomination — which is apt to end in defeat, anyway, for the Republican candidate. All the political hotshots are putting their bets on Jimmy Carter.

THE DEADLY ILLNESS that has, to date, killed 22 or 23 people who attended the state American Legion convention in Pennsylvania is still a mystery as the week ends, although there are some clues. Swine flu, the kind that swept the world in 1918, killing 500,000

Americans, has not been ruled out and Congress is trying to pass legislation that would help the President get his vaccine on the market in time for a possible fall epidemic.

Question: Will Jimmy Carter, peanut farmer from Georgia, carry the Deep South?

UNQUESTIONABLY.

Question: Would the same James Carter, if he were a wheat farmer from Nebraska, carry the Deep South?

Right now Dixie is caught up in almost unanimous regional enthusiasm for "a Southern President."

In Georgia many or most will concede that Jimmy could not again have been elected to state office, yet his home state will close ranks behind his bid for the Presidency.

In Alabama and Mississippi where Jimmy Carter had been considered much "too liberal," he is now considered "a Southern Democrat," "one of us."

IN RECENT ELECTIONS Southerners have departed from the party of their parents, figuring conservative fiscal policy more important than political tradition. But they've been uncomfortable as Republicans, yearning to be able to vote as Democrats again.

NOW THEY CAN — and they will — even though to contribute to a party mandate nationally may return to Congress a host of "wild-eyed spenders" of whom the South disapproves.

It makes for fascinating conjecture to imagine their party's candidate to be "James Carter, Nebraska Democrat, wheat farmer."

Imagine that he has this same running mate.

Assume him to have identical Carter convictions on crucial issues.

He supports the Humphrey-Hawkins bill.

He would maintain the Voting Rights Act and other civil rights legislation.

HE WOULD NOT SEEK a constitutional amendment to prohibit abortion.

He favors increased federal aid to education.

He would not seek to end busing with a constitutional amendment.

He favors national health care insurance.

One out of three

We all talk about bureaucratic waste in Washington and Austin, but little is said of it in the old hometown.

VIRTUALLY ALL TOWNS in Texas have separate collection offices for school and city taxes. The county, of course, furnishes a third office, all sending bills to the same people.

At one time or another, school, city and county leaders tackle the problem. In some cases they have consolidated, not always with the desired effects. Our neighboring city of Round Rock has proposed a consolidation of tax collections with its school board, which the Round Rock Leader hails as "a good example of how cooperation can save money."

Certainly a good case can be made for this kind of cooperation. It will be interesting to watch the Round Rock experiment, if it is indeed undertaken, and perhaps consider again how it could be tried here. And, why not a three-way deal to include the county?

JUST BECAUSE we have been doing something the same way for umpteen generations is no reason to conclude that it can't be improved upon. Nor, for that matter, is it cause for change, which can often result in making things worse. All of us have cussed the modernized and automated billing system of the big institutions, and even the post office! Many of us would like to see the simple ways of the past returned.

A certainty

LOTS OF interesting things pop up in church bulletins but for pure punch in a few words this is the best we've seen in quite a while.

There wasn't any sermon. There weren't any Bible quotations. There weren't any admonishments.

A Presbyterian minister simply listed "Six Cast Iron Certainties for 1976" on the front of his weekly bulletin.

He listed five certain situations, none open to argument, like:

1. Newspapers are going to depress you.
2. Television is going to irritate you.
3. Legislation is going to infuriate you.
4. Inflation and taxes are going to cost you.
5. Coping with life is going to worry you.

Then he poked his congregation with the only sure "good thing" that could happen to them.

No. 6 said "Christianity and the Church are going to strengthen you."

New uses for old rail depots

By Robert P. Hey

Washington What do Washington, D.C., Marysville, Pennsylvania, and Chatham, Massachusetts, have in common?

Train stations now used for other purposes, since they are no longer needed for railroad passengers.

In Washington, cavernous Union Station — newly scoured and carpeted — now houses the city's visitor center, which opened this past July Fourth.

In industrial Marysville a non-railroad sign hangs from the utilitarian depot: "Antiques and Used Furniture," it says.

In Chatham the quaint Victorian station new is home for a museum of railroad memorabilia; trains stopped coming to Chatham and the rest of Cape Cod years ago.

Across the United States hundreds of other one-time railroad stations similarly have been recycled — 500 by one count. Perhaps twice that many now lie abandoned or little used, waiting for someone with imagination (and money) to imbue them with new purpose.

These 1973 counts were compiled by Architectural Forum. They are widely cited by people who work in the restoration area.

No one is certain what current figures are. But Robert McNulty, assistant director of the architecture and environmental arts program of the National Endowment for the Arts, says, "I would think, actually, things are speeding up" in the re-use field.

No federal help

For the last two years the federal government has been trying to get into the act — to provide federal funds to groups that want to recycle train stations. But as yet, "nothing really has happened," as Mr. McNulty says ruefully.

In July, 1974, Congress passed a law that was supposed to provide funds for this purpose, but for various reasons the money never was appropriated.

Earlier this year Congress made another try — also futile. It voted to provide $5 million to the National Endowment for the Arts to finance the planning and conversion of some stations. But legal experts found the bill "technically illegal," Mr. McNulty says — so no money has been spent.

Now the issue is back in Congress again.

The bill is being reworked in hopes that this time it will be not only approved by Congress, but will be legal and will actually disburse money — provided, that is, Congress this late in the election year can get around to voting on railroad station preservation and re-use.

Bill supported

Nationwide there is considerable support for the bill, Mr. McNulty says. During these past 15 months, the endowment has received 300 to 400 letters from municipal officials and private groups offering to testify before Congress in support of the plan.

One state catalogued 32 stations which could be rehabilitated and put to good use — if it had the money. How many such stations are there nationwide? "We're talking in the thousands," says Mr. McNulty.

Meanwhile, Americans in far-flung parts of the United States have been recycling stations in recent years as they could get their hands on needed funds.

For instance, there is the newly renovated New London, Connecticut, station about to reopen, which Mr. McNulty calls "the perfect adaptive use of a railroad station." A small part still is being used as a railroad facility; the bulk of the station, no longer needed by the railroad, has become a public information center, restaurant and commercial development.

Other stations similarly have been transformed for non-railroad purposes:

• The Oberlin, Ohio, depot — built in 1866

— became a Head Start school.

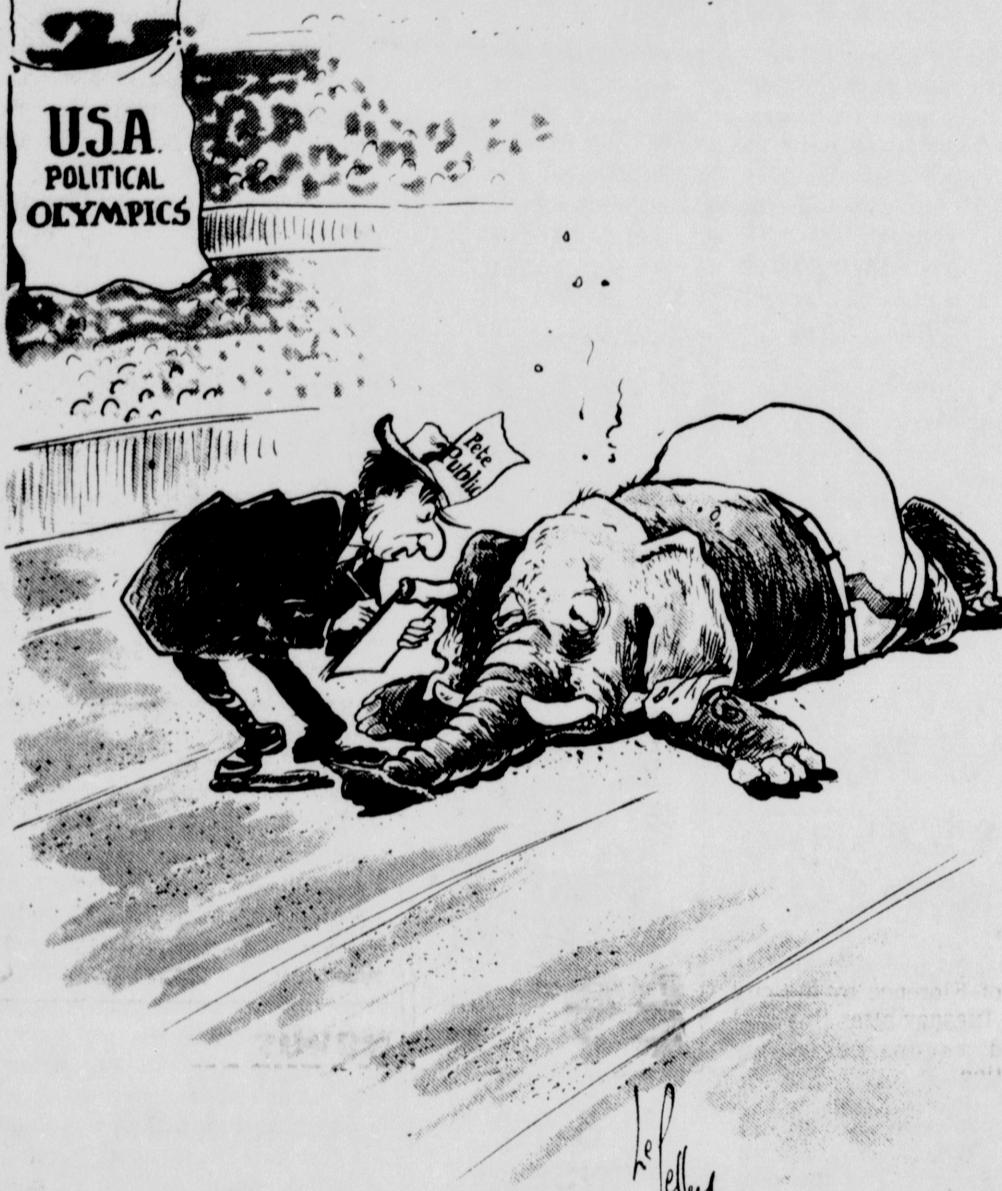

• Yuma, Arizona's station resurfaced as a cultural center.

• In Chattanooga, Tennessee, the building was renovated for commercial use.

Then there is the reverse twist of Barnesville, Maryland, a small Washington suburb whose commuters now have no railroad station at all. They're casting covetous eyes at an abandoned brick building, vintage 1933, once used by the Washington Gas Light Company. They're trying to find enough money to move it trackside, rehabilitate it — and turn it into a working passenger train station.

In view of being up all night with Reagan and Ford, how do you assess your chances?

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

Saturday, August 7, (today) is MARKET DAY in Liberty Hill. This is the first anniversary of Market Day. It had a humble beginning, but it is certainly not small now! Those of you who get your "Sunday SUN on Saturday morning have ample time to go down to Liberty Hill Square to see just what great bargains you will find there! You can be sure that you will find many of your friends there, doing just what you are and enjoying fellowship.

One booth that you will find there will be manned by members of "The Panther Booster Club," they will have all kinds of cold drinks, hot dogs and chili dogs, as well as pies and cakes — some of which may be just what you are looking for for Sunday dinner.

Liberty Hill School Superintendent James (Bud) Perry has released to us the following names of teachers for the beginning of school year 1976-1977. Elementary - Judith Sweazea, Kindergarten; Ann Sikes, Karen Monroe, Virginia Ford, Betty Carothers, Patsy Perry, Sandy Cooper, Louise Marcom, Connie Lenox, Bobby Vahn; Special Education teachers, Neva Watts, Kathy Tourelotte and Ann McMurry, and Darlene Cox is the aide for Liberty Hill School Principal, and will teach free enterprise, civics, American history and world history; Lee Ann Wright and Barbara Forbes are secretaries.

Registration for elementary, the junior high and high school will take place Monday, August 16, with the buses running so as to arrive at school by 9 a.m.; all students will be returned home after the registration has been completed at approximately 11 a.m.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Reagan Considered a Woman for VP

WASHINGTON — Ronald Reagan stunned Washington with his announcement that, if nominated, he would choose Pennsylvania's liberal senator, Richard Schweiker, as his running mate.

We can report that, earlier, Reagan considered an even more startling candidate. He thought about naming a woman, ambassador to Britain Anne Armstrong, as his vice presidential choice.

But the Reagan staff conducted a confidential survey to find out whether the voters would accept a woman on the ticket. The survey showed decisively that Americans aren't yet ready for a woman vice president. The strongest sentiment against Anne Armstrong, surprisingly, came from -- women.

The Reagan forces made a quiet check, meanwhile, to assure themselves that there are no skeletons in Richard Schweiker's closet.

Ronald Reagan refused to divulge his own income tax returns. So he did not ask for Schweiker's tax returns. But the Senator volunteered a complete financial statement. This shows his income has averaged around $60,000 a year since he was elected to the Senate.

They also discussed Schweiker's health. He offered to send Reagan a full medical report. This will show no physical problems, except that he is hard of hearing and sometimes wears a hearing aid.

Pentagon Promotion: The military services waste more money than all the other government departments combined. Yet the House has appointed one of the pentagon's most obliging friends, Rep. Edward Hebert, D-La., to investigate the extravagance.

Hebert has passed up many chances to win headlines and save the taxpayers' money. But his investigations subcommittee has finally held a hearing. It did not take up a multi-million-dollar scandal, but a 200-year-old personnel matter.

This has been only one General of the Armies of the United States. He was John Pershing, who commanded the U.S. Army during World War I. Some people think this is a slight to our first and foremost general, George Washington.

So Hebert's subcommittee took up a bill to promote George Washington retroactively. He will be listed in the military records, if the bill passes, as the first General of the Armies of the United States.

Benevolent Brass: We previously reported that the shah of Iran has squandered his oil billions on modern weapons faster than his armed forces can assimilate them. The United States rushed over technicians to help the shah straighten out the military foul-up.

Iran ran up a $93 million bill for this technical assistance. But we've now learned that Iran was charged only $65 million. Government auditors discovered that the shah was never billed $207 in airlift costs. He also was never charged for $7.8 million in salaries.

This adds up to more than $28 million that the Defense Department simply overlooked. The secret audit recommends paying the missed $29 million.

Mafia Probe: New York's Democratic Congressman Lester Wolff is planning a rip-roaring investigation into organized crime. He will be chairman of a new committee which will investigate narcotics smuggling.

He has already received information that the crime syndicate has largely taken over the wholesale end. The mobsters allegedly supply ghetto punks who peddle dope on the streets and take most of the risks.

The Drug Enforcement Administration has been going after the street pushers and peddlers. Wolff believes this is a mistake. He will concentrate on nailing the mobsters who are supplying them.

Ortiz, Borrelli jailed in Inner Space incident

Two men are in Williamson County Jail after ignoring warnings and breaking and defacing formations in the Inner Space Caverns.

Jorge Ortiz and Lionel Borrelli were both arrested by the Georgetown Police Department Wednesday after a complaint from an employee at the caverns.

Both men were released to the custody of the Williamson County Sheriff's Department, and booked on charges of Criminal Mischief. Justice of the Peace Bill Hill set bond at $1,000 each.

NIGHT FIGHTERS

Robert Pate, 23, of 903 College Street in Georgetown was arrested Monday night on charges of Drunk to Endanger.

The man was arrested after the Georgetown Police Department received a call from a Georgetown resident who said she was awakened by fighting under the street light at Ninth and College Streets.

HOSPITAL DISTURBANCE

A call from the Georgetown Hospital brought officers to the Emergency Room Sunday night, where Monroe Ziet of Georgetown was arrested and charged with Drunk to Endanger and Disorderly Conduct.

After officers arrived at the hospital, the man cursed both hospital personnel and the policemen, police reports said, and was in a combative mood.

His wife came to the hospital, but was unable to calm him, so he was taken to county jail.

Block closing recommended

The Georgetown Planning and Zoning Commission voted last week to recommend to the City Council that the block of Forest Street between Eighth and Ninth Streets be closed so municipal facilities on each side of the street can be fenced in to form a single unit.

Zoners also decided to recommend subdivision of lot 1, block 7, from .37 acre to two lots, one .20 acre and the other .17 acre. The lot is located behind the Georgetown Inn.

A final draft of the comprehensive city plan was also submitted to the Zoning Commission by Sam Wyse and Associates of Dallas.

1977 county budget in the works—

By NEL PERSKY

Consideration of 1977 budget requests is slated for county commissioners' regular monthly meeting Monday at 10 a.m. in the commissioners' courtroom on the first floor of the county courthouse.

All meetings are public and may be attended by anyone wishing to observe or comment on proceedings.

A $50-per-month salary increase for all or most county employees is reportedly being considered by commissioners, who received multiple requests that salaries be raised 10 percent in 1977.

Individual requests from county officials were studied July 16, when courthouse officers met to discuss their needs with Commissioners Wesley Johnson, Georgetown Precinct 1, Wesley Foust, Florence Precinct 2, Robert Rozacky, Granger Precinct 3, W. F. Schlickeisen of Taylor, Precinct 4 and C. L. Chance, presiding judge.

Tentative decisions to approve or reject each requested item were made at that time, at Foust's suggestion.

"When we go over them, let's act on them, disposing of them," he proposed. "No use in putting it off." (See request dispositions reported in related stories, this page.)

TAXES WILL NOT be raised or lowered as a result of commissioners' final decisions on how high the county's 1977 budget will go, because property tax rates had already been lowered a nickel, at the July 12 meeting.

County property tax rates were lowered from the 1976 rate of 80 cents at that time.

while county assessment ratios of 31.25 percent and all other taxes collected by the county remain unchanged.

Net result of the action will be to lower county taxes somewhat in 1977.

The action was taken because the county officers' salary fund, comprised of fees collected in county and peace justice courts, has been accumulating, especially in the last three years. County Auditor Ben Kurio explained that the increase, due to the growing number of cases being handled in the county's legal offices, continued upward while officers' salaries underwent little change.

Vance, Lott request secretary, Walsh to start as assistant DA

District Judge Kirby Vance appeared with his successor Bill Lott, who won the Democratic nomination in May, to request that commissioners hire a fulltime secretary for the district judge.

"I feel by January 1, 1977, the caseload will be such that it will be necessary to have a secretary for the judge's correspondence and to be there to answer calls while court is in session. She should receive the same salary as the secretaries for the county judge and district attorney," wrote Vance in his formal request.

"I have suggested that the answering service of the criminal justice system all ring on a common board up there," proposed County Judge C. L.

Pct. 1 to get 30 percent?

Requests for precinct funding, submitted by the four commissioners themselves, were approved with little discussion, not even when the Precinct 2 request for a change in the even-split method of dividing road money was read.

"That's not going to give Precinct 3 as much as I have asked, but I have gotten less," Rozacky indicated his willingness to support the change which would give his Granger-area precinct the sharpest cut — down to 22 percent of the Road and Bridge, Farm-to-Market and Lateral Road and State Highway funds.

Foust noted that the 3 percent cut from the even 25 percent each precinct now receives contrasted with the 8.5 percent of county taxes paid by county residents of Precinct 3.

"I don't see where they have got any complaint coming. I think it's fair," he said of the change which reduces both Precinct 2 and 4 funding by 1 percent to raise the percentage allocated Georgetown Precinct 1 up to 30.

State Lateral Road funds would continue to be divided evenly, 25 percent to each precinct, according to the proposal tentatively agreed to by all commissioners.

"I HATE to see it that way but that's the way it is," philosophized Rozacky lightly.

Johnson's $105,000 labor appropriation, a total which excludes any salary raises, was approved. The balance of funding going into the precinct was approved for operating and maintenance.

Foust's $80,000 labor appropriation was also approved, with the remainder of Precinct 2 funds earmarked for road construction and necessary equipment for the operation of the precinct road and bridge department.

Rozacky had requested a $100,000 labor appropriation, excluding any salary increase approved by commissioners.

Schlickeisen's $221,500 request, including a $110,000 labor appropriation, was also less than certain after commissioners had agreed to cut Precinct 4 allocations 1 percent.

"I don't know on yours, Bill, if with the reduction in taxes you can have $221 thousand in total revenue," Foust said, and the matter was officially left at that.

"I DON'T think we've ever overlooked anybody," said Commissioner Wesley Foust, implying that an across-the-board salary is being contemplated, although not necessarily the 10 percent Vance requested.

"I AM ANTICIPATING" making some changes in the way the docket is handled," Lott told the court. "We are going to ask the lawyers to come in and start setting the cases, instead of calling the docket two times a year."

Lott received approval for an electric typewriter, dictating equipment, filing cabinet, office supplies and expenses, filing cabinet and shelving for a law library.

"If I have to build them myself I'll see that you get the shelves," Foust told him.

Request for an additional electric typewriter, to be used by the court reporter, was disapproved during the budget hearing.

All requests submitted by District Attorney Bill Connor and District Attorney-elect Walsh were approved with little discussion.

"THAT'S A GOOD ONE; I want to go through that right quick," Taylor Commissioner

Chance submitted no requests for new budget allocations for his office, he submitted three general budget considerations to commissioners.

In addition to a request for a mobile radio to be used by the juvenile probation officer, which had been approved July 26 contingent upon availability of a used unit, Chance recommended purchase of 2 moving radar units for $4,200 and 5 citizen-band radios for enforcement officers, at $750.

"Along with some wasted calls we're getting some good calls on CB," Sgt. Fred Hurst of the Texas Highway Patrol told commissioners. "We have made several good DWI (driving while intoxicated) cases. If you get good ones it's something to think about, if it's worth listening to the others. The days of working radar siting still are past, due to the minimum wage.

Stubblefield additionally asked that acoustical ceilings and/or carpeting be installed in the three offices comprising the county attorney's department, to reduce noise levels he termed "deafening." The incoming officer listed "two IBM typewriters in almost-constant use and two window units," as well as the small volume and the shape of the rooms, and ceiling, wall and floor surfaces which he said are reflective, as contributing to the noise.

"Many times interviews and telephone calls must be stopped due to the noise level. I've had to take them out in the hall and talk. It's a constant aggravation."

"We'll just look into that; that's all we can do," Foust decided.

Later he told fellow commissioners, "I don't know about that carpet business, either. I wanted to put that in here (commissioners' new courtroom) and thought better of it."

RESPONSE TO the final request, that an assistant county attorney be employed under the CETA (Comprehensive Employment and Training Act) program to work under Stubblefield next year, was as follows.

Liability insurance furnished by the county for its sheriff and staff, including reserve deputies, was another request which received no immediate resolution by the court.

Foust expressed uncertainty as to the legality of the county purchasing such insurance.

"It's a question as to whether we can expend county funds," he told Foust, but added, "We'll to what we can."

Requests for a CB base radio with antenna for an estimated $250, plus 9 CB mobile radios were made by court members, as were all such requests from county officials.

"As Sheriff of Williamson County," Bosshard's request ended, "I request the Commissioners' Court to provide a jail facility that will meet standards adopted by the Commission on Jail Standards."

Bosshard explained that the dispatcher on duty had sent the night deputy to answer call and roused another off-duty deputy to answer the other. To handle the third complaint, she had been advised to call Constable Charles Fuller of Taylor, in whose precinct the burglary allegedly occurred.

He explained that the dispatcher on duty had sent the night deputy to answer call and roused another off-duty deputy to answer the other. To handle the third complaint, she had been advised to call Constable Charles Fuller of Taylor, in whose precinct the burglary allegedly occurred.

Included in Bosshard's budget request was a report which compared a total $15,905.93 in misdemeanor fines and fees collected during the

Tear gas for county sheriff

County Sheriff August Bosshard's requests were among the most lengthy, and included a report comparing workloads in 1969 and 1976, as well as requests for tear gas guns and grenades, citizen band radios, more personnel, a new county jail and raincoats.

Approvals are expected for:

- tear gas guns, shells, grenades and masks, which Bosshard's request said "have proven to be a necessity in modern law enforcement agencies. It would greatly enhance the effectiveness of this force if we could obtain such equipment."

- badges for a proposed reserve deputy force which "will abide by a uniform, strict code, governed by this office."

- two overhead light systems for night patrol cars to "provide some additional protection for our Deputies on night patrol. It has been proven that lights of this type are a strong method of crime prevention."

- one Williamson County Car Registration Book which "will be used in the Central Dispatch System in order to provide the Officers with vehicle registration, immediately."

- a custom dispatch console (estimated price not to exceed $1,000) which "would consolidate all the radio equipment into one unit, with one microphone. This type of unit adds to the effectiveness and speed of the dispatch system."

- a dictation machine and transcriber to decrease the time deputies spend writing or typing investigation reports. Commissioners agreed with Foust's proposal to "provide him with something," and discussed availability of a used machine now in storage.

• a raincoat for each deputy. BOSSHARD'S REQUEST that commissioners increase sheriff's office employees' salaries by $60 per month was immediately endorsed by Rozacky.

"I firmly believe that the law enforcement people that put their lives on the line should be paid more than the people who go home at five o'clock and have nothing to worry about," the Granger commissioner stated.

Discussion on the topic seemed settled when Rozacky proposed that deputies be paid $60 monthly above whatever raise is given sheriff's office personnel, with stipulation that no overtime be turned in.

Bosshard's budget request statement explained that, because of the new wage and hour law effective January 1, 1977, fire- and policemen will receive time-and-a-half pay after working 216 hours in a 28-day cycle. In 1975, by contrast, overtime did not accrue until 240 hours had been worked in a 28-day cycle.

"If the commissioners grant my request for three additional men, under this new law I will only be able to utilize 1½ men, using our present law and operation as a com-missionary." The commissioner proposed a meeting between sheriff department officials and constables to foster a more cooperative working relationship between the two.

"Don't some of the constables have a tendency to work more with the city police?" asked Georgetown Commissioner Wesley Johnson.

"I just don't know how close they work," Bosshard replied.

"What percentage of the time are you spending on civil paperwork and could the constables do some of this?" County Judge C. L. Chance tried another approach to lessen sheriff's office workloads.

"Some of the sheriff offices in the state have quit doing civil work altogether." Constables are elected as the law enforcement arm of the justice of the peace.

"We do all of JP One's paperwork," Bosshard replied.

"The first 15 or 16 days (of July) we had 80 prisoners in our jail, 9 of them felony prisoners."

"I WOULD LIKE" to see your department and the commissioners' court and the elected constables of Williamson County discuss this law enforcement in Williamson County in general. Nothing bad is going to come of it and something good might come from it.

"I wish these dispatchers would be fully utilized."

Bosshard countered Foust's proposal with recitation of a recent incident when three burglaries were reported simultaneously one night.

He explained that the dispatcher on duty had sent the night deputy to answer call and roused another off-duty deputy to answer the other. To handle the third complaint, she had been advised to call Constable Charles Fuller of Taylor, in whose precinct the burglary allegedly occurred.

"For a solid week I got phone calls from that area, that I didn't do my job because the constable had to handle that," Bosshard said.

THE INCREASED COST of keeping up the courthouse — and all it stands for — was topic of a recent Friday session when county commissioners examined two dozen budget requests for the upcoming year. Items requested represent increases over the estimated $1,758,880.92 expenditures commissioners approved for 1976. Revenue sharing added another $277,426.79 to county spending power this year, and commissioners are waiting to see if another revenue sharing program is adopted by Congress, to begin in '77.

JP's receive school fees Constable requests car, arsenal

All justices of the peace submitting requests before the court included a $50 or $25 registration fee for in-service training school, necessitated because of a reduction in the Governor's Criminal Justice Division financial support to the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration.

JP's are required to attend the schools in order to remain qualified to exercise their duties and responsibilities of office.

Fees, which do not go into effect until 1977, are for 20- and 40-hour school sessions. In addition to the newly required fee of $50, JP Bill Hill, presiding over Justice Precinct 1 in the Georgetown area, received approval for one 36-drawer and one 5-drawer filing cabinet, as well as an extension telephone which, his request noted, was "requested in last year's budget — Needed at Once."

A WALKIE-TALKIE was disapproved for JP Richard B. Gann of Leander Justice Precinct 3, but his requests for the $25 fee and added income in salary and telephone allowances were at least partially granted.

He asked a $335 monthly salary increase and was given a pay hike of $85, up from his current $465 monthly to $550 per month. In addition to the telephone allowance approved by commissioners, Gann had requested utility and gasoline allowances which were not passed.

All Justice Precinct 8 JP Berneice Johnson of Round Rock requested in addition to the $25 fee was a used filing cabinet. Her request was approved.

No other formal budget requests were received from county peace justices.

Justice Precinct 6 Constable Charles Fuller of Taylor presented a seven-item request at little profit: only his final request was approved.

Fuller will receive a metal filing cabinet with locks as his share of the 1977 county budget allocation.

Although he will not be receiving the asked-for new electric typewriter and electric adding machine, commissioners did make plans to see that the constable gets used machines.

"I'M using a manual typewriter," said Foust.

Of the adding machine Foust said, "We have got one that's loaned to the liquor board (Alcoholic Beverage Commission); we can call that one back." Later, however, he decided, "I'll bring one in and I'll use my own calculator." The adding machine was loaned to ABC Inspector Joe Saegert July 12.

DENIED were requests for a police car "fully equipped as the Sheriff Dept.," a finger-print kit, "furnished (new) Rifle, Shotgun, and also pistol and equipment same as S.O. Dept.," and a $400 - a month salary hike.

Fuller was the only constable making budget requests.

Although requests for a 10 percent salary increase for all employees, submitted by Tax Assessor-Collector William Buck and County Clerk Dick Cervenka, as well as Cervenka's 7 percent increase request for elected officials were exed off their budget requests along with other officers' salary hike requests, commissioners are expected to approve some pay increase for county employees in 1977 —

Asst. auditor asked Grants - ambulance checked

A fulltime assistant was the only request submitted for the county auditor's office, although Auditor Ben Kurio also presented a second request sheet to commissioners, listing 15 general items which will need to be considered as the proposed budget is figured.

Kurio prefaced his own request for additional office help by citing "the growth of Williamson County, the increased fees of office collected by the various county offices and the justices of the peace, the receipts and expenditures of the Williamson County Emergency Medical Service, the record-keeping and report requirements of Federal Revenue Sharing and the various grant programs." Currently working under Kurio is one assistant auditor and a clerk, both fulltime employees.

But he also explained that the assistant, who would take the place of the CETA employee currently employed in that office, is intended to work on a parttime basis. Request that provision for a fulltime assistant salaried in the range of $700-$750 per month go into the budget planning was made, Kurio explained, only in case it became apparent that a fulltime employee would be needed to effectively audit all county and precinct financial records. He told commissioners that a retired person with auditing experience or someone with another parttime job would be sought.

APPROVALS were set on replacing the air conditioner in the district judge's office and setting aside $100,000 for the proposed Williamson County Fair and Show Association building. Commissioners specified the $100,000 will be transferred out of either or both the officers salary and general funds to the permanent improvements fund.

While minimum wages for police, ambulance and fire protection no longer are required as a result of a recent Supreme Court decision, several other considerations will increase the overall total of Williamson County's 1977 budget:

- a recent devaluation for the Westinghouse Company, caused by removal of heavy equipment;
- adjustment for additional telephones installed;

ARIES March 21-April 20

You'll find that most of your difficulties can be eliminated if you slow yourself down and listen to people. Prejudiced attitudes must be overcome.

TAURUS April 21-May 21

Though you're inclined to be a good money manager, you could find yourself becoming impulsive. Think before spending.

GEMINI May 22-June 21

You could be asking too many questions. Direct your inquisitive nature towards more knowledge of the business world.

CANCER June 22-July 23

Health matters are of importance. Get reassurance from one close to you concerning financial endeavors. Your recent project is sure to succeed.

LEO July 24-August 23

The only good day for you is Saturday. Spend this week quietly and without plans. Handle people, especially loved one, with extra care.

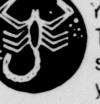

VIRGO Aug. 24-Sept. 23

Involving an elder, extra courtesy is advised. Friends and associates could use your encouragement since they respect your opinion a great deal.

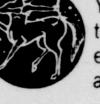

LIBRA Sept. 24-Oct. 23

Your generosity may be showing too much. Curb your sympathies towards those who aren't close to you. An emotional upset will come and quickly go.

SCORPIO Oct. 24-Nov. 22

You may be using people who will later get even. Toying with emotions is dangerous. More sincerity on your part, good and bad, will redeem you.

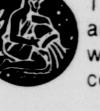

SAGITTARIUS Nov. 23-Dec. 21

You can be too easy-going for some higher ups to take you seriously. If your point is important enough to get across, stop flitting and get it across!

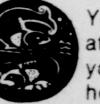

CAPRICORN Dec. 22-Jan. 20

You could waste this week resting on your laurels, but you'll also lose respect of certain others. Help those who need you to mend or overcome personality problems.

AQUARIUS Jan. 21-Feb. 19

The best days for you this week are Wednesday and Thursday. Enjoy a movie or sport. Working with your partners can almost guarantee success.

PISCES Feb. 20-March 20

You don't usually choose to be conservative, but at this time it's wise. You may be controlling your emotions too much, let go a little, for your health.

TV Dial-ogue

SPACE MYSTERY — There used to be a syndicated show on TV called U.F.O. Ed Bishop and Michael Billington were the stars. Could you tell me the names of their characters and the name of the organization they worked for? Also, will the show ever be on again?

— Sarah Josephs, Alexandria, La.

The characters were Straker and Foster, and the U.F.O. spotting agency was dubbed SHADOW. The series is still in syndication and is carried in a number of markets. Perhaps you can convince your local station to pick it up again.

SLITHER — Does my memory serve me well — was Louise Lasser in a movie some years back with James Caan that had everyone riding around in mobile homes?

— Jack Newston, Bridgeport, Conn.

There's nothing wrong with your memory. Lasser co-starred with Caan, along with Sally Kellerman and Peter Boyle, in a somewhat peculiar comedy called "Slither," made in 1973.

TV WAR — My sister and I have been arguing about a show that was on in the mid '60s about a schooner operating undercover during WW II. Jack Warden and Gary Collins starred. The question is was it The Wackiest Ship in the Army, or Navy?

— Marthe Boldis, Santa Barbara, Calif.

I don't know which side of the argument you're on, but the Kiwi and its crew worked for Army intelligence.

Myth to reality in the Old West

After years of misleading our children, and subjecting ourselves to the usually mindless and inaccurate fairy tales known as TV westerns, it is refreshing to learn at least one studio is as committed to fact as it is to entertainment in its presentation of a posh/horse opera.

The Yale University Media Design budget willing, plans to produce a series of 10 biographical television dramas based on the history of the American West, examining the years between 1770 to 1930.

The documentary series, titled "The Westering", has one episode in the can — a bio-drama of Old West legend Charles Siringo, onetime cowpuncher, detective, author and Hollywood extra.

The primary obstacle facing the Media Design Studio is a familiar one — bucks, or the lack thereof. Thanks to a grant of $44,000 from the National Endowment for Humanities, the studio and producer-director Philip Garvin were able to complete this first 90-minute epic but capital necessary to finance the remaining nine documentaries has been difficult to raise.

Garvin, who produced and directed the much-acclaimed "Religious America" series for the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS), hopes this first episode will lasso their enthusiasm for The Westering, too.

The director, along with Yale history professor Howard Lamar and screenwriter John Dunkel, went to impressive lengths to make the series as entertaining as possible without compromising historical fact.

Dunkel researched material on Siringo's life for more than 18 months, combining libraries and gathering information throughout six Western states.

Of the first Westering installment, Garvin said, "Siringo's life was so tumultuous, so filled with suspense, that the viewer will forget that he is learning something about American history." Particularly pleased by Yale University's participation in the series, Garvin predicted, "If scholars such as Lamar can do such an amazing job of mixing education with entertainment, the academic community may be increasingly recognized as a potential source of television programming."

The episode on Siringo will span his early years as a cowhand on a Texas ranch immediately following the Civil War. A gunfight between him and Bat Masterson is revealed, as is his initial friendship, then enmity, for outlaw Billy the Kid.

Siringo later joined the infamous Pinkerton Detective Agency in 1885 where he remained for 22 years, acting mainly as an undercover agent spying on mine workers.

NBC offered Peter Falk a deal he couldn't refuse, and so he has donned the rumpled raincoat once more to lead Columbo into its sixth season. The opener features guest William Shatner as a TV detective who kills his producer. The Columbo big-wigs should watch it, they might put ideas into Falk's head.

The deal, by the way, was a cool million for four episodes.

Robby Benson, who starred in the title roles of the feature films "Jeremy" and "Ode to Billy Joe," undergoes another name change for the upcoming NBC movie "Richie." He plays a barbiturate addict whose habit brings despair to his parents (Rod Steiger and Eileen Brennan). ***

John Ireland, a fine actor who has been seen all too rarely in films and on television, has been slated to guest star in a segment of Little House on the Prairie. The show's star and executive producer, Michael Landon, will direct the story, entitled "Little Girl Lost."

Production has begun on ABC's "Rosemary's Baby II," starring Oscar winners Ruth Gordon, Ray Milland and Patty Duke. Astin. Stephen McHattie plays Rosemary's son, now a young man with big trouble on his hands.

The plot for this sequel to one of the more chilling tales of the past decade, has Andrew ruled by a Satanic curse, rather than actually being the offspring of Satan. He struggles to escape from a coven of devil worshippers, but finds that they can control his life at will and he is helpless to prevent the ultimate destiny they have planned for him. Or is he?

There is talk in the air of turning this into a series, which would mean that years might go by before Andrew's destiny catches up with him. The most interesting note here is how the network has managed to take the villainous babe of the original, lop off his little horns and hooves and turn him into a persecuted youth. The better to sell advertising with, my dear.

TV Star Scene

Butch and the Kid may no longer be with us, but their female buddy Etta Place rides on in a special two-hour ABC movie entitled "The Most Wanted Woman." Katherine Ross repeats the role of the wayward schoolteacher she created in "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid," a film which will also air on ABC, Sunday, Sept. 26. Steve Forrest late of the now shot-down S.W.A.T. co-stars with Ross as an obsessed Pinkerton detective, while another series outcast, Hector Elizondo of Popi plays Pancho Villa.

Love will keep us together, and so will a weekly series -- such is the togetherness that popular singing duo The Captain and Tennille (Daryl Dragon and Toni Tennille) have found. The two, whose series begins Monday, Sept. 20 over ABC, star in their first TV special on August 17. Art Carney and country music star Roy Clark guest... Bored jetsetters, assassins, ex-Nazis and an assortment of other colorful types stalk one another through the Costa del Sol and Tangier in "Hard Contract," on The ABC Friday Night Movie, August 13. James Coburn, Lee Remick, Lili Palmer and Burgess Meredith are the lumaries here, overshadowed somewhat by the scenery.

Robert Forster, who had a couple of unsuccessful series of his own, (Nakia and Banyon) turns up next season in an episode of NBC's Gibbsville. He plays a has-been boxer who lands a job as a bouncer in a bar... Dina Merrill, Carol Lynley, Monte Markham and Phyllis Newman head the guest cast of "Who's Who in Neverland," the second episode of "Quincy" to go before the cameras. This latest entry in the NBC Sunday Mystery Movie string stars Jack Klugman as a hard-driving medical examiner.

Kevin Dobson escapes from the seedy streets of New York's Kojak, but ends up in a worse predicament in "Stranded," airing Friday, Aug. 20 over CBS. He heads a band of modern-day castaways lost in the South Pacific in this repeat TV movie... Susan Dey, who was a singing Partridge some years back, guests with Christopher Connelly in "The Captive," the 90-minute premiere of The Quest.

Lily Tomlin, who won three Emmy Awards as writer and star of her own TV specials, will be a guest-participant on "People."

This 90-minute late night special, airing Saturday, Aug. 28 over NBC, bills itself as a magazine-in-motion. Essentially, the show is an attempt to bring to life the format of People magazine... The networks have been tossing off quite a few unsuccessful comedy pilots recently. This week NBC unloads a batch starring such comedy pros as Jack Weston, Marge Redmond, Michele Lee, James Coco, Patty Duke Astin, and John Astin. Most of the themes revolve around couples -- divorced, separated, fighting and so on. It seems happy marriages aren't that funny.

That talented actor Billy Barty, who was excellent in last year's Hollywood misadventure "The Day of the Locust," turns up in another one of those pilots that never got past its first episode. Don't Call Us is the show, airing August 13 over CBS. In it he plays half of a performing midget team (the other half played by Patty Maloney), who is represented by a talent agency headed by Jack Gilford and Allan Miller...

The guest roster for "Perry Como, Las Vegas-Style" has been announced. Vying for the spotlight in this special to air September 11, will be Ann-Margret, Rich Little, The Marquis Chimps and Los Pampas-Gouchos of Argentina.

WHAT IS 4-H? — 4-H is an informal, practical, learning-by-doing educational program. It helps youth establish real-life goals and become competent, productive citizens. 4-H gives young people an opportunity to take an active part in learning about and solving problems that face them and their communities. Often the knowledge and skills they develop through 4-H work opens the door to a lifetime of personal growth.

Today's 4-H program is for all youth—rural and urban—from all racial, cultural, economic and social backgrounds. It reaches girls and boys in a variety of ways: as members of organized 4-H clubs, as participants in special interest groups, as enrollees in short-term projects. It reaches them through television, camping and other educational methods; and in programs planned to meet specific needs of youth and the communities where they live.

4-H involves young people everywhere—in big cities and little towns, in the country, and in the suburbs, on Indian reservations, and in the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Virgin Islands and Guam. Activities are typically conducted in the homes of members or their leaders, in school, or in other community buildings. 4-H is found wherever professional Extension personnel and volunteer leaders are available to conduct the program.

Youth organizations in more than 80 countries around the world have adapted the 4-H idea. Opportunities for individual, club, community, state, national and international projects and activities are available through 4-H.

SEPTEMBER will be the month for the Williamson County 4-H Clubs to resume their regular schedule of activities after breaking for the summer. Anyone interested in joining 4-H should contact the County Extension for further details (863-2318).

Officer elections will be held during the regular meeting September 13 to fill a three-man slate, including a chairman from among Williamson County board members.

W-BCO meeting canceled

Nat Lopez of Georgetown and D. V. Hammond of Burnet were recently appointed to serve under Nominating Committee Chairman David Lilley of Marble Falls to select a slate of officers of the Board of Directors of Williamson-Burnet County Opportunities, Inc.

Appointments were made by Troy Brasuel, board chairman.

Brasuel also canceled the regularly scheduled W-BCO meeting, which would have been held Monday night, "since there is no pressing business to bring before the board in August."

Officer elections will be held during the regular meeting September 13 to fill a three-man slate, including a chairman from among Williamson County board members.

Jarrell revises free lunch scale

Jarrell Independent School District has amended the income scale used to determine eligibility for free and reduced-price lunches as well as the School breakfast and Special Milk programs.

This year's scale represents a 25 percent increase in the minimum eligibility incomes for free lunches and a 95 percent increase in those for reduced-price lunches.

Students from families of the sizes and with the incomes shown in the scale are eligible for free lunches as well as reduced-price lunches of 20¢ or less and reduced-price breakfasts of a dime or less. Those who qualify for free lunches are also eligible for an additional, free half-pint of milk in schools which participate in the Special Milk Program.

Fighting range fires

Most kitchen range fires occur when cooking oil, fat on meat or clothing touches a hot element or burner.

The Food and Drug Administration's Bureau of Product Safety estimates that about 100,000 burn accidents from kitchen ranges occur each year.

Some practical guidelines for dealing with a fire in the kitchen are offered below.

If a fat fire should start in the cookware on the range's surface units — or in a fondue pot or electric skillet — immediately cover the pan and turn off the source of heat.

Use a fire extinguisher if the fire should spread. Or baking soda may be thrown on the fire if an extinguisher isn't available.

Never try to carry flaming cookware outside or to the sink, and do not throw water on a grease fire. Water only causes grease fires to spread.

If a fire starts in the oven or broiler, close the door, turn off the source of heat and keep the door closed. With limited air, the fire should go out within minutes.

You can minimize the risk of a broiler fire by using slotted, solid racks which allow good grease drainage but shield the fat from the heat source. Do not use a broiler pan with an open, wire rack unless it is deep enough to add water beforehand to cool the fat.

Some simple precautions can reduce chances of a range fire.

retained for income tax purposes when the property is transferred at death.

This would have no effect on the taxes which must be paid on an estate at the time of death but would increase the capital gains tax if the property is later sold by the heir.

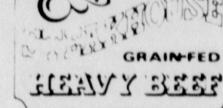

While this only applies to property over $60,000, I oppose it because it is the first step toward establishing a tax on capital gains at the time of death.

There will be much more debate on this bill in the House and the Senate but some form of meaningful estate tax revision should be approved by Congress this year.

Football practice to begin

Football practice begins Monday, with Georgetown workouts starting at 8 a.m.

Varsity football players will be on the practice field from 8 to 9 a.m.; in the weightroom from 9:30 to 10:15; in "skull" session classroom 10:15 to 11:15. Afternoon sessions begin at 4:15 with skull sessions to 4:45, and practice from 5-7 p.m.

The JV schedule will be weights, 8:8:30 a.m.; skull session, 8:30-9:15; on the field, 9:30-11:15; and again on the field, 3:30-4:45 p.m.

Freshmen will begin with skull sessions at 8 a.m.; weights at 8:30; on the field 9:30 to 11; and again from 3:45 p.m.

The workout schedule will be in effect until school starts Aug. 23.

The first football games will be Sept. 2 for the freshmen and junior varsity, and Sept. 3 at Copperas Cove for the varsity.

LEADER

Leander workouts also begin Monday, with varsity practice beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Leander's first game will be Sept. 3 against Pflugerville.

Leander will meet again Aug. 30-31 to set seasons on ducks, geese, coots, sandhill cranes, woodcock and snipe.

Dove season set

A five-day white winged dove season and split mourning dove seasons for both the North and South Zones with full-day hunting during the winter segments have been established by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Commission.

Whitewing season will run Sept. 4, 5, 6, 11 and 12 from noon to sunset in Brewster, Cameron, Culberson, El Paso, Hidalgo, Hudspeth, Jeff Davis, Kinney, Maverick, Presidio, Starr, Terrell, Val Verde, Webb, Willacy and Zapata Counties.

During the concurrent mourning and white-winged dove season one fully feathered wing must remain attached to dressed birds while being transported between the place taken and a commercial processing facility or hunter's home. One fully feathered wing must remain attached to all migratory game birds imported from Mexico.

Large bag on either mourning or white-winged doves is 10 birds, with possession limit of 20, and applies to all Texas dove seasons.

North Zone dove season is set for Sept. 1 - Oct. 14 from noon to sunset, and Jan. 1-16, 1977, 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset, except in those counties west of the Pecos River where the season ends at sunset Jan. 15.

A similar split season is set for South Zone counties: Sept. 25 - Nov. 7, noon to sunset, and Jan. 1-16, 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset. However, fall mourning dove hunting in those South Zone counties with a whitewing season will end Nov. 2.

Last year an experimental all-day season was tried in the winter segment of the South Zone with no appreciable change in dove harvest. Hunters contacted by the Parks and Wildlife Department generally were pleased with the additional hunting opportunity whether they took more doves or not.

The last year of all-day dove hunting was 1950.

All of the new regulations as adopted by the P&W Commission are within frameworks established by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, which released the maximum allowable rules for Texas and the Central Management Unit earlier this month after study of migratory bird population reports and discussion with member states, interested agencies and the public.

Commissioners were told the 1976 white-winged dove breeding population is some 530,000 birds, the third highest population within the last 10 years. Adult mourning doves posted a modest six percent increase over 1975.

The commission also set seasons and bag limits for other migratory game birds including:

King and clapper rails: Sept. 1-Nov. 9, Trans-Pecos season ends Oct. 31. Bag limit is 15 in the aggregate and possession is 30 in the aggregate.

Sora and Virginia rails: Sept. 1 - Nov. 9, Trans-Pecos season ends Oct. 31; daily bag and possession limit, 25, singly or in the aggregate.

Shooting hours for all rails are from 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset.

Gallinules: Sept. 1 - Nov. 9, Trans-Pecos season ends Oct. 31; hunting hours are 30 minutes before sunrise to sunset. Daily bag is 15, possession is 30.

In those counties west of the Pecos River, the combined daily bag limit on gallinules and all rails is 15 with a possession limit of 30, no more than 25 of which can be sora or Virginia rails.

Special teal-only season: Sept. 18-26, bag of four birds in the aggregate, possession limit of eight birds in the aggregate. Shooting hours are sunrise to

Austin Notebook

by PATRICK CONWAY

AUSTIN — Agricultural production, along with food and medicine, has long been considered one of life's basic necessities and for that reason, the Legislature said in 1961 that all equipment and goods used in agriculture would not be taxable under the new sales tax law.

IN THE DECADE AND A HALF since the general law was passed, however, there has been a great deal of confusion and misunderstanding among farmers and ranchers, merchants who sell agricultural goods and the state's tax collector, the comptroller of public accounts.

It often fell to the comptroller to decide whether this item was or wasn't exempt from the sales tax and a list of tax-exempt goods evolved over the years but this list was rarely consistent and items were taken off and placed on the list just to fit a particular situation.

I'm glad to see that the Comptroller has moved to clarify this whole area with a new, full revision of the sales tax regulations regarding the taxing of products used by farmers and ranchers.

The new rules basically say this: if an item is going to be used in the production of crops, livestock and/or agricultural products, it is probably exempt from the sales tax.

IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that a farmer or rancher is not automatically exempt from paying the sales tax, though. To get the exemption, the item has to be used exclusively on a farm or a ranch — and those are defined as land used entirely or partially to produce livestock, crops or other agricultural products.

One previously confusing part of the sales tax law was how someone actually got an exemption. Now if someone purchases something for exclusive use on his farm or ranch, he simply must present to the seller an exemption certificate that says he's going to use the item in agricultural production and therefore the seller is not required to collect the sales tax. The seller then will retain the exemption certificate at his business for inspection by the Comptroller.

Of course, some items are exempt from the tax, regardless of their use, and can be bought without an exemption certificate. These include feed for farm and ranch animals, seeds and annual plants, animals — the products of which are ordinarily food and horses, mules and other work animals.

And most other items are now under the exempt heading, thanks to this recent liberalized set of rules. Sometimes the tax people just "backed into" decisions about what should or should not be exempt. For instance, they always exempted an implant gun because it has no other use but on a ranch, but the tax was levied on a hammer because it wasn't exclusively an agricultural item just because a farmer bought it to use on the farm.

Now the tax exemption applies to things like medication, tonics, and other preparations for farm and ranch animals.

A lot of equipment will now be tax-exempt, too, if in the end it is used in connection with producing agriculture. In this category would come things like baling wire and binding twine, fence wire and fence posts, repair or replacement parts used exclusively on farm machinery like tractor tires, and storage facilities for bulk commodities.

Some things around the old farm are still taxable though, and won't qualify for the exemption. These include structures that enclose a space which is used to provide living, working, office or sales space. Examples of this would be a garage or a warehouse.

This, of course, is just a general description of what the new rules speak to and questions on specific times ought to be directed to the comptroller's office.

On the local front — County traffic mishaps, all in the western end of the county, took six lives — Sheriff Bosshard and his people harvested a marijuana crop on the banks of North San Gabriel that was said to have a street value of $15,000 and filed charges against a 24-year-old Liberty Hill man — Georgetown schools are gearing up for fall registration — Westinghouse gave the Georgetown Hospital Authority $30,000 for the hospital — with Westinghouse manager Bob Finch putting a $15,000 check into Hospital Drive Chairman J. H. Compton's eager hand in a simple ceremony Monday — and, the weather warmed up considerably. We could use a bit of rain, nearly everyone agrees.

Firemen set to serve barbecue

The barbecue will be preceded by water polo contests in the park from 3 to 5 p.m. the same day.

The $5 per team entry fees will be combined into a pot for award of prizes to winners in both men's and women's divisions. First prize will be 60 percent of the total entry fee collection, with second prize 40 percent of the collection. Competition will be open to all comers.

Trustees discuss projected growth

Trustees "will take a look at the needs" of the Georgetown schools when they convene at 7 p.m. Monday.

Following the tour, board members will reconvene in the conference room of the high school to discuss the needs of the local schools through 1980 in conjunction with their projected enrollment chart for the next five years.

Georgetown ended the school year with an enrollment of 2,446. School officials anticipate 2,600 students when the school bell rings at 8:30 a.m. Monday, August 23.
